

8-Point Plan Is Advocated to Plug Up Income Tax Loopholes

Joint Committee Would Boost Holding Company Levies

INCLUDES NEW PLAN
Group Suggests Tax on Foreign Firms of
U. S. Owners

Washington—(AP)—A senate-house tax committee recommended today drastic increases in domestic personal holding company taxes as one means of preventing tax avoidance.

The committee, proposing for enactment at this session a $100,000,000 eight-point program of legislation to plug income tax leaks, also recommended an innovation in the taxation of foreign personal holding companies.

It suggested that undistributed net income of such companies should be figured in the gross income of the American owners of the companies just as if it actually had been distributed to them.

Treasury officials, who cooperated with the joint committee in making an investigation which brought in the names of many prominent citizens, estimated roughly that enactment of the committee's recommendations would mean an increase of $100,000,000 in federal revenues.

Other Proposals
In addition to the domestic and foreign personal holding company proposals, the committee recommended stiffer tax treatment for the following methods used by wealthy persons to reduce their taxes: incorporated yachts and country estates, incorporation of personal talents (such as acting), artificial deductions for interest and business expense, multi-trusts, non-residents, aliens, and artificial deductions for losses from sales or exchanges or property.

The committee report to the house and senate followed an investigation extending over several weeks and undertaken at the request of President Roosevelt. The president said in a message to congress that a comparatively small number of wealthy persons was reducing tax payments by methods which he considered should be checked by legislation.

The committee proposed to lift the surtaxes on domestic personal holding corporations to 65 per cent on the undistributed net income not in excess of $20,000 and 75 per cent on the amount above $20,000.

The present rates are 8 to 48 per cent.

In addition, the committee suggested that deductions allowed such companies be altered broadly, and some revoked entirely.

Would Revise Law
The committee proposed that tax laws should be revised to encourage dissolution of foreign personal holding firms "as promptly as possible."

The major recommendation here was that in the liquidation of any foreign personal holding firm not completed by the end of this year, 100 per cent of the gains from the liquidation should be taken into account in computing net income.

The committee urged that deductions from gross income should not be allowed for expenses of operation and maintenance of property owned or operated by a holding company to the extent the expenses exceed rent or compensation, unless it is established that the compensation is the highest obtainable, that there was reasonable expectation of profit, that the property was necessary to the conduct of the business or that it was held in the course of business carried on for profit.

The committee said these changes would have the effect of placing the personal holding company on the same basis as an individual who cannot offset his personal expenses against his income.

Incorporated talents would be treated similarly.

SPEEDY JUSTICE FOR SLAYER OF 3

Jens Thompson, 34, who pleaded guilty yesterday to a first degree murder charge in connection with the slaying of three of his former neighbors near Austin, Minn., started a life prison term in states prison at Stillwater, Minn., today after one of the state's most speedy prosecutions.

Thompson, fingerprinted and booked under a number, took his place in the twin factory this morning. Less than 24 hours after bloodhounds hunted him out of his hiding place in a deep gully near Houston Tuesday afternoon, District Judge N. E. Peterson at Albert Lea pronounced life sentence at hard labor for the bachelor-farmer.

Automobile Plant Closed
Pending End of Dispute
After Rival Unions Clash

Detroit—(AP)—The Chrysler corporation's Plymouth plant remained closed today pending a settlement of differences which led to fighting between rival unions yesterday in which 10 men were injured and a riot call for police.

Only a few men appeared for work this morning. The gates were not opened and from a United Automobile Workers' sound truck, circling the plant, came instructions for the men to return to their homes.

Conferees between representatives of the U. A. W. A. and the management, which adjourned at 9 o'clock last night, were resumed today. The U. A. W. A. demanded the reinstatement of four men discharged for alleged participation in an attack yesterday noon on two officials of the Independent Association of Chrysler Employees, whose claims of 26,000 members are disputed by the United Automobile Workers.

Richard T. Frankenstein, organizational director for the U. A. W. A., said there "probably will be no work" today.

Police Guard Gates
The big plant, which employs 11,000 men, remained closed throughout the night with city police maintaining a patrol outside the gates. The city police augmented company guards, who kept up their usual vigilance within the plant.

Ten men were injured in a series of altercations that preceded the shutdown order. Four U. A. W. A.

Zionists Split on Palestine Plan

World Congress Not Agreed on Proposed
Negotiations With Britain

Zurich, Switzerland—(AP)—The Zionist World Congress split today over a motion that would authorize the incoming Zionist executive to negotiate with the British government on the proposed Palestine partition.

The motion, drawn up by President Chaim Weizmann yesterday afternoon, led to group debates that lasted until early today when an informal poll of the delegates indicated a slight majority in favor of the measure.

Later, by a vote of 285 to 115, the congress voted to continue the debate in executive session.

Weizmann had urged Zionists interested in the development of Palestine as a Jewish national home to consider the British Royal commission's plan for division of the Holy Land into sovereign Jewish and Arab states—even though "the proposal as it now stands is not acceptable."

Passengers Ordered to Boats; Ship Hits Rock

London—(AP)—The captain of the Netherlands steamer Maaskerk ordered his passengers into the lifeboats today after the steamer had struck Brenton rock off Cape Palm, West Africa, radio messages to Lloyd's reported. The number of passengers was not known here.

The 4,552-ton ship hit the rock at 10:24 a. m. G. M. T. (4:24 a. m. central standard time), and the boats were ordered lowered about four hours later.

Radio messages said three hatches were leaking and that six of tanks also were damaged on both sides of the ship. The pumps could not halt the rising water.

Sugar Bloc Is Firm Despite Promised Veto

Regardless of President's Disapproval

UP TODAY IN HOUSE

Roosevelt Objects to Restrictions Upon Hawaii
And Puerto Rico

Washington—(AP)—Senator Black (D-Ala.) submitted a petition signed by almost half the senate today urging a special session of congress in the fall to enact general farm legislation.

The petition was signed chiefly by Democrats and independents. It said the signers felt it would be "unwise" to wait until January to enact farm legislation because farmers making preparations for their crops should know what laws would be on the books ahead of that time.

Black presented his petition to the senate shortly after a group of southern Democrats said after a White House conference that President Roosevelt had reiterated his stand that crop control legislation should precede a renewal of crop loans.

Washington—(AP)—Congressional sugar bloc leaders agreed at a caucus today to stand pat on a sugar control bill President Roosevelt notified house leaders he would veto.

Representative Coffee (D-Neb.), spokesman for the meeting, said approximately 50 representatives and senators from sugar producing and refining states were "unanimous" in their decision to go ahead with the legislation.

The bill was scheduled for house debate today.

The sugar bloc meeting followed an announcement by Chairman Jones (D-Texas), of the house agriculture committee that the president had told him he would veto the bill if passed in its present form.

The administration objects to a provision restricting refined sugar imports from Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), who attended the meeting, said the provision was "an important enough to wreck sugar legislation."

The president has twice approved a provision similar to the one he now objects to," the senator said.

Coffee said those who attended the meeting "expressed resentment" at the chief executive's announced decision.

Washington—(AP)—Weary congressmen started their eighth month of work today with much of the session's most important measures still awaiting consideration.

Leaders, however, hoped to dispose of most of them and wind up the long session within two or three weeks.

The chief threat to this objective appeared to be a growing demand for enactment of general farm legislation. In the house there was talk of blocking some of the administration's most vital measures until an agricultural bill was brought forward.

This proposal was directed primarily at the wage and hour bill, a key to adjournment. The senate

Danger of Rail Strike Reduced by Pay Boost

Cleveland—(AP)—Threats of a strike of more than a million railroad employees diminished today.

A 5 cents an hour wage increase announced in Washington brought peace between the nation's carriers and 800,000 non-operating employees, since ratification was held only a formality.

Still confronting the railroads, however, was the vote of 350,000 members of five operating brotherhoods, authorizing a strike to enforce demands for 20 per cent raises.

Settlement of the dispute with non-operating brotherhoods, such as clerks and shopmen, was announced last night by the national mediation board. These 14 crafts authorized early this week a strike if their demands were rejected.

Otto S. Beyer, of the board said the raise represented an increase of between 8 1/2 to 8 3/4 per cent. The non-operating employees, like the operating employees, had demanded 20 per cent increases.

Wirephoto Receiving Set Ready for Service, Associated Press Reports

New York—(AP)—Development of the wirephoto receiving set 40 inches high—about the size of a radio cabinet—was announced today by the Associated Press.

The newest technical step forward in the science of transmitting pictures by wire, it was conceived and built by Associated Press technicians under the direction of W. J. McCambridge, assistant general manager, and H. M. Biele, chief engineer.

The machine has been fully tested and will be put into operation immediately, McCambridge said. He pictured the new receiver as a development comparable to the introduction more than a year ago of the portable wirephoto transmitter, which doubled Associated Press picture coverage.

Ickes' Wants Control Over Housing Plans

Points to Interior Department's Experience
With Projects

CLOSE BALLOT SEEN

Senate Leaders Try to Avert Other Restrictive Amendments

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Ickes made a formal bid today for administrative control of the proposed new federal housing program.

He told the house banking committee that administration of the Wagner housing bill should be placed under the jurisdiction of the interior department because of its experience with low cost housing projects.

"We either ought to fish, or cut bait," Ickes said, "with regard to reorganizing the executive department of the government. There would be just as much logic in passing a bill providing for three secretaries of the treasury as to enact this bill with its present executive provisions."

Ickes said the proposal in the bill pending in the senate to have a three-man, independent body administer the bill "just doesn't make sense to me."

Ready for Struggle
Administration leaders reformed their lines in the senate today to defend the bill against further restrictive amendments.

They discussed the possibility of reconsidering a 40-39 vote that fixed a limit on the cost of proposed low-rent housing projects.

The limitation offered by Senator Byrd (D-Va.), would withhold all federal assistance from projects costing more than $4,000 a family unit or $1,000 a room.

Byrd said it was designed to prevent "extravagance" like that which he charged occurred in construction of homestead projects by the resettlement administrations.

Charges "Waste"
The homestead projects, he declared, were "a wild waste of money such as has never occurred before in any civilized country."

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) and Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.), author of the bill, opposed the amendment on the ground that the limitation would be too low for some populous sections of the country.

Wagner contended during debate on the amendment that adoption would "kill this legislation."

Barkley said it might result in "cheap and shoddy homes that would avail nothing in solving the housing problem."

Senator LaFollette (R-Wis.) said the amendment might "paralyze" the housing program because it was not based on sufficient data. No such data, he contended, was available. A rigid limit, he said, would collide with rising building costs.

Wheeler in Attack on Democratic Committee

Washington—(AP)—Senator Wheeler (Mont.) denounced the Democratic national committee today for soliciting campaign contributions from Robert R. Young, New York railway magnate, shortly before he was summoned before the senate railroad investigating committee.

Wheeler, chairman of the investigating committee, said the solicitation was a "deplorable practice" and added:

"It must give the impression that people have to give money in order to get proper treatment, or that they might get some kind of favors."

Young testified yesterday that he bought $15,000 worth of Democratic national convention books early this spring, but that the solicitors had "positively never discussed" his dealings with federal agencies.

As today's hearing opened, Wheeler declared:

"I resent the Democratic committee going to people just prior to their coming here and soliciting funds."

Loyalists Report Victory in Clash With Insurgents

Claim Moorish Troops Defeated Southwest of Teruel

By the Associated Press
Spanish government forces, rallying to defend the Madrid-Valencia "life line" road, took defensive positions north of a highway to Cuenca and announced they had won a skirmish from insurgent Moorish forces.

A government communique said hand-to-hand fighting, 10 miles southwest of Teruel, base of the insurgent Aragon drive, ended with the bodies of turbaned Moors strewn over the battlefield.

In northern Spain insurgents reported gains in a decisive defeat of their enemy near Cuero.

The insurgent gunboat Dato was reported to have sunk a small trawler of unidentified nationality as it attempted to run the blockade of government-held Santander on the bay of Biscay.

Evacuation of Santander, reduced to serious straits by crowding and lack of food, was reported under consideration.

Recover Treasure
Valencia government officials, reporting efforts made to preserve Spain's art treasures, said two chests of jewelry, securities and art objects, believed lost in transfer at Barcelona, had been recovered.

The "hands-off-Spain" committee of nations was suddenly called together in London by its chairman, Lord Plymouth.

Hope that the Soviet Union would agree to belligerent rights for insurgents in exchange for simultaneous withdrawal of volunteers, were dim, however.

The war will continue to "the bitter end," Julio Alvarez del Vayo, former Spanish minister, said at Valencia. "Mediation is impossible," he contended.

Frenchmen condemned to death by Spanish insurgents on conviction of plotting to spread disorder among the troops, were taken to Fuerteventura today pending a further investigation of their case.

Expert Is Named To Probe Death

At Phil's Request

Madison—(AP)—Dr. A. W. Bryan, Madison, acting at the request of Governor LaFollette, will investigate the death of Ole Frederickson, 80, Whitehall, which occurred four days after he was admitted to Mendota State Hospital here.

Dr. Bryan was assigned to the case upon recommendation of Dr. S. E. Gavin, Fond du Lac, president of the Wisconsin State Medical society.

Relatives of Frederickson made a formal complaint to the governor, saying they suspected the aged man had been mistreated at the hospital. Pneumonia was given as the cause of death. A report which the state board of control made to Governor LaFollette said that Frederickson suffered a broken jaw when he fell against his bed and that other marks found on his body were present when he was admitted to the hospital.

Governor LaFollette said he called upon President Gavin of the medical society for help because he wanted an impartial investigation.

Dr. Bryan, who is connected with the Jackson clinic in Madison has an extensive background in institutional care of patients.

He informed the governor he would start his inquiry at once and make a report.

Roosevelt Hopes for End Of Gas Use During War

Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt said in a veto message to the senate yesterday that he was doing everything in his power to "discourage the use of gases and chemicals in any war between nations."

He returned to the senate a bill to change the name of the chemical warfare service to the "chemical corps."

"To signify this service by calling it the 'chemical corps' is, in my judgment, contrary to sound public policy," he wrote.

"While, unfortunately, the defensive necessities of the United States call for study of the use of chemicals in warfare, I do not want the government of the United States to do anything to aggrandize or make permanent any special bureau of the army or the navy engaged in this study."

"I hope the time will come when the chemical warfare service can be entirely abolished."

Horsts Seek to Win Permanent
Custody of Boy

Mother Indicates She Will Fight to Keep Her Child

Chicago—(AP)—Otto and Martha Horst turned to the courts today, hoping to win permanent custody of the dark-haired boy they cherished as their own since infancy and who was taken from them Tuesday in what police first believed to be a kidnapping.

The 30-month old boy, Donald, was being cared for at St. Vincent's orphanage pending settlement of the dispute between the Horsts and the young man and woman who authorities Donald was their son and admitted taking him forcibly from Mrs. Horst.

Donald was surrendered to assistant State's Attorney W. F. Crowley yesterday by the abductors, John Regan and Lydia Nelson, who said they had entrusted the boy to the Horsts at birth because of lack of money. Crowley said the Horsts admitted this was true.

The prosecutor said it was unlikely any charge would be filed against anyone but there was a possibility Fred Ewert, accused of driving the car in which Donald was taken from the Horst home, might be questioned if found. Police said Ewert, missing since the time of the snatching, had a criminal record.

Expects Donald's Return
"I'm sure Donald will be back here playing with all his toys by tonight," Mrs. Horst said cheerfully after discussing plans to have an attorney start legal proceedings at once to regain the child.

The boy appeared to enjoy his new surroundings, but mention of "mama" started him crying.

While not showing any animosity toward the Horsts, Miss Nelson, 25-year-old common law wife of the Horsts, said:

Ranger Wins Race With Endeavour

Records Fourth and Deciding Victory in Defense
Of America's Cup

Aboard Coast Guard Cutter Argo, off Newport, R. I.—(AP)—Gaining head on a record 10-mile windward leg and holding it safe over the rest of the 30-mile triangular course, Harold S. Vanderbilt's sleek, snub-nosed racer today led T. O. Sopwith's Endeavour II, the British challenger, across the finish line by approximately half a mile to score her fourth and deciding victory in defense of the America's cup.

Thus Vanderbilt, who piloted Enterprise to victory over the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V in 1930 and skipped Rainbow in her triumph over Sopwith's triumph challenger, Endeavour I, in 1934, became the first amateur yachtsman to defend the international yachting trophy successfully three times.

In addition, Vanderbilt's triumph today gave him a record of eight straight victories against Sopwith.

Racer today finished officially at 1:47.43, with an elapsed time of 3 hours 7 minutes 49 seconds that bettered the previous record for a 30-mile triangular course.

Endeavour crossed the line at 1:51.25 p. m. (C. S. T.), trailing by 3 minutes and 37 seconds, closest she has finished to the white-hulled defender in any of the four races.

Acknowledges Over- whelming Handicaps In Struggle

JAPANESE ADVANCE

American Citizens Organizing to Guard
Lives

Nanking, China—(Friday)—Official foreign circles in the central Chinese capital heard today that the Japanese army had informed diplomats at Tientsin that Sino-Japanese hostilities would be pushed to the banks of the Yellow river.

(North of the Yellow river lies the S-province territory in which Japan desires a dominant economic influence: Hopeh, Chahar, Shansi, most of Suiyuan, and the northern third of Shantung. Most of the Chinese central government troops presumably are still south of the river. Most of the fighting so far has been in Hopeh.)

The information received here said the Japanese consul at Tientsin, at the instance of the Japanese army, had told the senior foreign consul there:

"Continued concentration of Chinese troops north of the Yellow river means hostilities in that region."

"Therefore the Japanese military suggests that foreigners in that area be warned accordingly."

Shanghai—(AP)—United States consular officials in all China organized the whole American population tonight to guard their lives and get them out of possible danger zones if necessary, while China's generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek, suddenly proclaimed:

"We will fight to the death."

By nightfall the month-old undeclared war brought these developments.

1. Columns of motorized Japanese troops rolled north to halt a Chinese advance from behind China's great wall.

2. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, China's "strong man" near the center of the central government, flew to Kuling to tell the nation's chief educators that China will resist the Japanese advance "even though it means fighting inadequately prepared and to the death."

3. American missionaries, recalling previous Japanese conquests, feared Japanese domination of North China would wipe out missionary and education work representing millions of dollars in American investments, and years of the hardest toil.

Emergency Groups
4. Consul General Clarence Gauss at Shanghai directed formation of an American residents' emergency committee to safeguard lives of 4,000 Americans there. Similar committees were started by the 2,000 Americans in Chekiang and Anhwei provinces, and by officials elsewhere.

The committee attempted to establish communication with all Americans in the area, and issued instructions on the procedure of concentration if the crisis reaches Shanghai. Means of evacuation to safer districts, if necessary, were outlined. Other consular districts took similar precautions.

It was emphasized that the activities followed a long established formula in all American communities in China for use when needed. Gauss said the organization did not indicate that the emergency was considered imminent.

Naval Ships Ready
(The United States navy has available 30 ships in Far Eastern waters. They could be used to protect or evacuate Americans from danger zones.)

5. General Chiang met with his ministers and army commanders in emergency session at Nanking after his flight to Kuling.

6. In Tokyo, the Japanese war minister told parliament he is preparing further "punitive measures" against Chinese, and warned the Japanese diet to be prepared for an emergency session to provide additional funds.

Automobiles carried Japanese troops through Peiping to the north and east, and roads to north heavily fortified Chinese positions at Nankow pass. The Japanese reported their warplanes were

Council Votes to Defer Paving Near Fox River Co. Mill

Paper Company's Objection Leads to Abandonment of Project

What Council Did:

Accepted plans for field house at Spencer street athletic field and authorized advertisement for bids.

Voted to deny junk dealers' licenses unless yards are located in heavy manufacturing district.

Agreed to petition governor to include bill relating to status of health officer and city physician in third class cities in call for special session of legislature.

Suspended action on paving S. Lave street adjacent to Fox River Paper company property until investigation by board of public works.

Heard Philip Vogt, former alderman, on plan to secure federal aid for construction of reservoirs on Fox and Wolf rivers.

Affirmed PWA application for 5-mile paving program.

Paving a portion of S. Lave street adjacent to Fox River Paper company property was deferred by unanimous vote of the common council last evening at the city hall when a letter was read objecting to the final determination of assessments and notifying the city of an appeal to circuit court.

Attorney Mark Catlin, Jr., representing the company, said that railroad companies own portions of land, credited to the Paper company, and that the paving was to be for the benefit of the company. He also stated that the contractor would be opposed to changing the contract and the company would bear its fair share of the cost of resurfacing the street adjoining its property.

Original Request

He admitted the original request for paving the street came from the company but was mistakenly put into a blanket request for paving other streets in the vicinity to eliminate dust particles which interfered with the manufacture of paper. Withdrawal of that part of the proposed improvement would have no effect on paving the street adjacent to the Riverside Paper company property, he added. The company considers the present $5,520 assessment exorbitant, Catlin declared. Alderman W. H. Vander Heyden moved action be suspended in view of the "tangled titles."

Accept Plans

Plans and specifications for a field house at the Spencer street athletic field were accepted. Members of the committee on public grounds and buildings explained it was necessary to advertise for bids to estimate the cost of the structure and action taken last night would not mean final approval of the project.

Licenses to junk dealers will be withheld for 90 days and no license will be issued to a dealer unless his yard is located in a heavy manufacturing district, it was decided. A 50 per cent reduction of all licenses requiring a fee of $5 or more will be made after six months elapse.

A resolution by Alderman Gustafson that the city engineer with the aid of the street department be instructed to begin improving Lutz park was referred to the special Lutz park committee. The motion directed the city attorney to confer with boat house owners in the matter of removing the structures. Alderman Keller explained there are times that earth is available without cost to the city and it could be used to fill low places in the park.

The council will petition Governor Philip F. LaFollette to include in his call for a special session of the legislature a proposal by Senator Mike Mack for legislation that will permit cities of 39,000 population or less to combine the offices of city physician and health officer.

The present statute requires cities of more than 25,000 population to maintain separate offices. He said it would not be mandatory to make the change from two posts to one.

Accept Bids

Requests for "no parking" areas by the Log Mill Co., Ford Hopkins Co. and Sears-Roebuck company were denied. Parking on the east side of Clark street north to Wisconsin avenue will be restricted and the suggestion of parking in the center of College avenue was reported adversely by the traffic committee.

Alderman Keller moved that Eighth street be ditched, graded and encased and water service provided from Douglas street to Outagamie street and assessments against property owners be prepared. A grade will be established on Locust street from Fourth to Fifth street and a sidewalk completed on north side of Third street from Locust street east to present sidewalk. A sidewalk will be built on the north side of Badger avenue from Locust street to Pierce avenue and an apron at corner of Story street and Prospect avenue.

An offer for use of an area at the corner of S. Superior street and W. Lawrence street as a free parking lot for two years beginning Sept. 1, 1937, for refund of taxes during the two years and a suggestion to develop the fairgrounds off N. Walnut street as a parking space were referred to the traffic committee.

Plans and specifications for installation of sanitary sewers on Arnold, Lane and Alice streets from Meade street to Union street were approved and the project turned over to the board of public works. Alderman Vander Heyden moved that water service and a sanitary sewer be installed on Summit street.

between Spring and Summer streets.

The Wisconsin Distributing Co. requested an alley near its establishment be vacated to permit contemplated remodeling and construction of a new addition. The matter was referred to the street and bridge committee. A petition from Lawrence college to install a steam line from Russell Sage dormitory under E. John street to a recently acquired residence also went to the committee.

A letter from the district attorney suggested a conference to settle poor relief accounts totaling $331.06. The relief committee will consider the matter.

Affirm Application

Affirming its application for a PWA grant on a 5-mile paving program, the council voted to send specific information concerning the revised project, as requested in a communication from PWA officials. The council will ask PWA approval of transferring $10,000 from the exterior allotment fund for construction of the senior high school to the contingency fund. The school board asked the right to revise the budget because of rising prices and higher wages not anticipated.

Assessments for the following improvements were declared against property owners and projects ordered when no objections were heard: graving—N. Douglas street from Spring street to Badger avenue; W. Spring street from Douglas to Badger avenue; N. Gillett street from Spring to Winnebago street; sanitary sewer—W. Spring street from Douglas to Badger avenue; N. Gillett street, Winnebago street to Summer street; W. Wisconsin avenue, Gillett street west; N. Douglas street, Summer street to Wisconsin avenue.

Awarded Contract

An operator's license was issued to Louis Grather, 700 N. Mason street, and a class A license was granted to Harry Pletz, 1200 W. Washington street. Applications for theater licenses from the Rio and Appleton theaters, an operator's license from Harry Nichols, picnic license from Building Trades and Labor council and a class B license from Clarence Eggert were referred to the police and license committee.

Ask Protection

Letters from the Aug. Brandt Co., Auto Sales Co., Milhaupt Spring and Auto Co. and Walter Motor Co. asking "adequate protection" against damage to property were placed on file.

Proposed rates for water service outside the city were included in a communication from the water works commission. A flat rate of $45 for a main charge to lots of 60 feet or less and an assessment on a per foot basis for lots over 60 feet was suggested. An annual service charge of $12 is contemplated and water would be metered at city rates plus 25 per cent.

The Appleton water department reported it did not believe settling of a curbing on E. Washington street between Mead and Rankin streets was the result of water main installation. The matter was referred to the street and bridge committee. Alderman Steinhauer's suggestion to begin construction of sandboxes to be placed on principal corners in the business district during winter months was referred to the same committee.

23 Plumbing Permits Issued During July

Vogt Describes Move for Building River Reservoirs

Hearing Before Congressional Board in September

Former Alderman Philip Vogt, Appleton representative on a committee to further a move for reservoir construction on the Fox and Wolf rivers, appeared before the common council at the city hall last evening and said the committee was working for a federal appropriation to finance a survey of the entire area.

Declaring that surveys had been made locally and were never combined in a general report, Vogt said a hearing had been obtained with the harbors and rivers improvement board at Washington, D. C., in September and every community in the vicinity is expected to contribute a fair share of $500 needed to present the facts to the board.

The committee met with Governor LaFollette yesterday afternoon, Vogt said, and two engineers were assigned to review all available surveys and mold them into a preliminary general report for the board.

Unfavorable Report

An unfavorable report on the need for a survey was forwarded to Washington by the war department engineers of Milwaukee after a hearing at Oshkosh this winter and cities have banded together in a determined fight for recognition, Vogt continued.

"Man has destroyed nature's methods of controlling flood waters in the spring and dams must be built to balance the rush of water in the spring and stagnation in late summer months. Appleton has a $3,000,000 water plant but in many instances is forced to draw out drinking water from a stagnant pool," he said.

Contagious diseases spring from stagnant bathing beaches and a steady flow of water would further development of a bathing beach in the city on the Fox river. A complete, organized system will benefit every community in the form of protection from high water damage, he stated.

The project is primarily one of flood control but health and conservation factors are important. The state will include the district in a regional planning survey and Senators LaFollette and Duffy are in sympathy with the movement, he concluded.

Next Tuesday Best Time To Look for New Comet

The comet now rushing through the skies will be most visible to Appleton residents about Tuesday, according to Carl Elias, amateur astronomer. In order to locate the comet, Elias said, draw an imaginary line from the two pointers of the big dipper to the North Pole star. Below this line and close to the pole star the comet can be easily located, especially with a field glass. To see it best one should select a place where the eyes will not be blinded by artificial lights.

The comet was easily visible to the naked eye Tuesday night as a hazy star, added Elias, and is moving in a south westerly direction. By Aug. 10 it will be near the handle of the dipper, when it will be brightest.

"Seen through an 8-inch telescope at 9 o'clock Tuesday night," Elias remarked, "the comet displayed a slender tail pointed in a direction away from the sun. The comet is slightly brighter than Peltier's comet, which was seen about this same time last year."

The comet, still unnamed, was discovered about a year ago by Dr. P. Finster in Zurich, Switzerland. It is sometimes referred to as the Finster comet.

"If the comet shows any signs of unusual activity, the public is welcome to his observatory," Elias said. He pointed out several other interesting objects to look for besides the comet. The bright star in the south is the planet Jupiter, and the transits of its satellites across the disk of Jupiter can be seen almost nightly. In the south west is the planet Mars, now rapidly receding from the earth. Overhead at 9 o'clock at night is the bright blue star Vega, the brightest in the northern half of the heavens.

Two building permits were issued by the building inspection department yesterday. The permits: James Bulheris, 124 E. Franklin avenue, new garage, $415; Harry Stephens, S. Mason street, residence, $8,500.

Talk Coalition of Two Older Parties Against Progressives in State

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Politics, the science of being elected to office and staying there, is coming to the forefront, both in activity, and in public interest, as its practitioners replace plans for the next campaign for reminiscences of the last one.

Things are happening in Wisconsin politics which at this early date suggest strongly that the 1938 campaign will support the idea that Wisconsin likes political drama.

Perhaps the most significant development of the last few months is the movement for a duplication by the Republicans and Democrats of the fusion device consummated by the Progressives and Socialists two years ago. For almost two years Socialists and Progressives have been in one camp, with the result that the alliance now controls the entire state government, executive and legislative.

Movement Under Way
That example has set the conservative Democratic and Republican elements in the state to thinking, so much that there is now a well organized movement for a fusion of the two old parties into a single 1938 state ticket which would presumably win enough strength to turn out the LaFollettes and their cohorts once and for all.

While the state officers of both old parties are carefully saying nothing, both parties have members with state-wide followings and reputations who are vigorously espousing the idea.

Leader in the present campaign is W. J. Campbell of Oshkosh, elderly old-time leader of the Republican party, last year a Borah delegate to the Republican national convention. "The sooner Wisconsin Republicans and Democrats make up their minds that neither party can elect a full state ticket next year and are willing to take half a loaf as better than none, the better both parties and the state will be," expresses his opinion of the present situation.

"Could Win Together"
Campbell, who views the chances of his party realistically, is convinced that separately the Republicans and Democrats will always be doomed to defeat by the Progressive party, which would repeatedly ride into office with a minority of the total vote. Together they could easily win the 1938 election, he feels.

"Outside of the professional politicians, most of us don't care much whether the governor of Wisconsin is a Republican or a Democrat, if he is sound, sane, level headed, and honest," he declared.

At the same time the official state leadership of the Democratic party is seriously toying with the coalition idea. The principal worry of the Democrats is to elect Senator F. Ryan Duffy, and to that end they would be willing to help elect a Republican to the governorship.

Frank Is Mentioned
That Republican, according to the opinion of most observers, would be Glenn Frank, who is supposed to be willing to lend an ear to the proposition as soon as he is convinced that there is a sentiment for his candidacy.

In the Progressive party, according to the most reliable information, plans for next year are still conjectural. It is generally felt that the decision of Frank regarding a candidacy will determine whether Governor LaFollette will run for reelection, to break the third term tradition, or run against Senator Duffy for the United States senate.

At least one prominent Democrat who devotes most of his time to ferreling out political plans is convinced that Governor LaFollette will make a bid for a senate seat. Reminded of the prediction of many observers that the public would not support two LaFollettes in the senate, this Democrat laughed and pointed out that the Wisconsin public until now has supported them in the two highest state offices, and from the standpoint of the Democrats has supported them too well.

Successor In Doubt
There are many rumors as to the successor who will be chosen by the governor to succeed him if he runs for the senate. Most frequently mentioned are Adjutant General Ralph M. Linnell of the Wisconsin National Guard, who, however, is unpopular with the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation unit of the party, and Orland S. Loomis, attorney general, who credits his election to the support of the FLPP.

There are others who maintain that the logical successor to the executive chair is Theodore Damman, veteran party wheelhorse, a consistent vote getter, and best known Progressive state official outside the LaFollette themselves.

Contract Bridge Will Be Taught at Y. M. C. A.
Plans are being made to conduct a series of contract bridge lessons at the Y. M. C. A. this fall. Homer L. Gebhardt, secretary, announced this morning. Separate courses for beginners and advanced players to be held if sufficient entries are received.

Harry Brown Will Talk at Columbus

Outagamie County Farmers Invited to Conservation Meet

Farmers of Outagamie and surrounding counties have been invited to attend a southern Wisconsin agricultural conservation meeting to be held at Columbus on Monday, Aug. 16.

Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture and former director of the Georgia State Extension service, will be one of the principal speakers at the gathering.

which is being sponsored by the state agricultural conservation committee, the agricultural extension service and a Columbia county committee.

H. C. Wells, chairman of the state committee, and W. W. Clark, state extension director, are assisting in making arrangements to entertain a large number of visitors from southern Wisconsin counties. A similar gathering is being held at Chippewa Falls on Friday, Aug. 13. The purpose of these gatherings is to acquaint farmers with the proposed 1938 agricultural conservation program.

It is expected that Claude R. Wickard, director of the north central division will be present to report upon the recommendations made by state and county committees in the ten midwestern states which comprise the North Central Division.

Hold Hearing on Proposed Bridge Over Wolf River

No Objections Made to Highway Commission At Shiocton

Hearing on proposed construction of bridge across the Wolf river at Shiocton was held by the Wisconsin state Highway commission at the Odd Fellows hall, Shiocton yesterday.

No objections were made against the proposal and Outagamie Highway Commissioner F. R. Appleton and Senator Mike Mack, Shiocton, were among those who advanced arguments for the structure. A decision is expected to be made by the commission in the near future.

The tragic death of seven members of an Oshkosh family last March at the present bridge may be a deciding factor in the request for a new bridge at that point.

Thomas Davlin, chairman of the state highway commission, has petitioned the war department for funding of a proposed structure beginning at the intersection of Highway 54 and the Wolf river and extending to the intersection of Highway 54 and 76.

Following the accident in which the seven persons were killed, Shiocton residents circulated a petition demanding bridge improvements. The structure, if built, will be financed jointly by the state and federal governments and will entail no expense to Outagamie county, Commissioner Davlin said.

69 Trailer Models At Keshena Camp

Waupaca County Coroner's Car Endangered by Gasoline Blast

BY CARL W. MASON

Keshena, Wis. — The National Trailer show conducted here in connection with the annual summer convention of the Tin Can Tourists of the World, encamped on the Menominee Indian fair grounds is one of the important features of this large assemblage of tourists from parts of the United States and from Canada. Numerous models of 26 different makes of trailers are being shown and demonstrated by more than 60 dealers.

A total of 69 models are on exhibition at the show grounds in addition to displays of various trailer accessories and furniture. Still other demonstrators are being shown on the camp grounds proper.

A meeting of the Trailer Coach Manufacturers' association, a national organization but confined largely to the middle west, was held at the Keshena community hall Tuesday afternoon. Dates for the annual meeting of the organization were fixed for the second Wednesday after Labor day in Chicago. A show committee of three was named to fix upon a policy for future trailer shows.

Among the trailer campers here is Coroner Adam Shider of Manawa, Wis., former Waupaca county assessor. Wednesday morning the Shider trailer and inhabitants recorded a narrow escape when a fire broke out in a compartment beneath the trailer stove from leaking gasoline burst into flames when a light was struck. The party includes Coroner Schider and wife and Mrs. William Klemm of Eau Claire. The fire burst into flames burned the stockings of the two women, burned Mrs. Klemm's shoe and scorched the two women painfully about the legs and arms. The trailer was not seriously damaged.

Rain Tuesday prevented the opening presentation of the Menominee Indian pageant in the bowl, postponement being taken to Wednesday night. Instead an impromptu program at the grandstand was carried out under direction of Royal Chairman C. C. McKnight, including community singing, solos and humorous talks by T.C.T. members. Dancing closed the evening.

Keshena, Wis. — Recreation is convention business for nearly 1,300 members of the Tin Can Tourists association, meeting for two weeks of parades on the Menominee Indian reservation.

The convention schedule provides daily entertainment for the inhabitants of the tin canners' mobile trailer village—ceremonial dances by the Indians, log rolling exhibitions, and plenty of time to eat, fish and argue the merits of trailer life with next door neighbors from California or from New York.

Mealtime stirs the tin canners, all members of an organization founded by 29 tourist campers in Tampa, Fla., in 1919.

Outside the camp a tom-tom beats monotonously as the Menominee tribe practices for its pageant. "Otekena," the story of an old Indian legend.

The Indians will present "Otekena" in a natural color emphasis, theater as a feature of the convention, which closes Aug. 8.

Extras Start Fighting At Paramount Studios

Hollywood — Black eyes and bloody noses were nursed today by several men who were in a crowd of 600 rioting extras at Paramount studios.

The extras, applying for pirate roles in Cecil B. De Mille production, started fighting when they thought they were going to be refused interviews. Police finally dispersed the crowd after 300 obtained jobs.

Weyauwega Village May Incorporate as City

Weyauwega — This village may be incorporated as a city if findings of an investigating committee named by the village board at a special meeting last night are favorable.

With a population of more than 1,000 persons, the village is eligible to incorporate as a city, officials said, and a committee was named to compare the advantages of each form of government.

Members of the committee are Roy Blair, Victor Anthony, Earl Knowles, Sam Saltzman and Charles Miller.

Democrat Group In New Attempt To Restore Unity

Senators Invite President And Vice President To Banquet

Washington — (U) — Democratic senators will get together next week around a banquet table in an informal attempt to restore party harmony, shattered by the court reorganization dispute and the wage-hour bill.

They invited President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner to be their guests at a stag dinner. It was arranged by a committee representing both sides in the recent court fight.

Senators, describing the party as spontaneous, said they hoped the president can attend and will speak. He is expected to reply to the invitation in a day or two.

Garner, who was active in bringing about the truce that resulted in shelving the court bill, was chosen to preside. The only Democrat not invited was Senator Hattie Caraway of Arkansas.

"I never yet have gone to a stag party," she commented.

The dinner, "Love Feast," to the new majority leader, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, is the second "love feast" of congressional Democrats this summer.

All Democrats in the senate and house were invited late in June to a series of picnics on Jefferson island in Chesapeake bay. President Roosevelt and cabinet members also were invited.

Although those who attended said there was little serious discussion of legislative problems, several expressed the belief party ranks had been bound more closely together. The climax of the court fight, however, developed shortly afterward. When it had been settled, some southern Democrats revolted against the wage-hour bill. It was approved, 56 to 28.

Besides the differences of opinion on those issues, some senators have expressed concern over the possibility of reprisals against those who opposed the court reorganization program.

"Piece of Moonshine"

Democratic Chairman James A. Farley, however, told an audience last night at Akron, Ohio, that such talk is "a piece of moonshine."

The national Democratic organization, he said, "is interested in campaigns and not in feuds."

Senator Van Nuys (D-Calif.), one of the principal opponents of the court bill, announced yesterday he would be a candidate for reelection in 1938. The terms of several other members among the foes also end next year.

Governor M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana, said after a White House visit last month that the Indiana Democratic organization would not support Van Nuys for re-election. The senator took office in 1933 at the start of President Roosevelt's first term.

Issuance of Tax Warrants Planned

Will be Served on Those Failing to Make State Income Payments

Many taxpayers failed to meet payments on their state income tax the deadline for final installment payment, according to J. L. Tibbitts, assessor, according to J. L. Tibbitts, assessor, according to J. L. Tibbitts, assessor.

The law still provides a 30-day allowance, and after that, about the first week of September, warrants will be sent from the Wisconsin Tax commission. Delinquents must pay a 2 per cent penalty, in addition to interest at the rate of 1 per cent a month.

Included in the nine counties that pay taxes on incomes at the Green Bay office are Brown, Outagamie, Calumet, Door, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Marinette, Oconto and Waupaca.

Within a few days warrants will be sent individuals who were on another roll that was due July 1. The 30-day allowance has passed, and warrants are drawn up as the regular procedure.

Body of Orla Shaw To be Exhumed in Slaying Mystery

Judge Grants Petition by Attorney for Brother Of Dead Girl

Prairie du Chien, Wis. — (U) — Judge Jeremiah O'Neill last yesterday granted a petition for exhumation of the body of Orla Shaw, Soldiers Grove farmer and uncle of 11-year-old Mildred Best, who was found dead in two weeks before Shaw's death.

The petition, filed by Carl N. Hill of Madison, attorney for Harold Best, 15, the girl's brother who has been held without charge in his sister's death, asked that Shaw's body be exhumed for an autopsy to determine whether he may have died of poison instead of natural causes.

Judge O'Neill ordered Hill to draw up the formal order for the exhumation. Hill said the autopsy would be performed some day next week at Viroqua, Wis., where Shaw was buried, by a state toxicologist, Dr. C. H. Buntle, University of Wisconsin pathologist, and Dr. S. B. Chessin, Madison pathologist.

Changes His Story

Harold Best has been in Crawford county jail since June 4, the day his sister was found dead in bed at Shaw's home, where the children lived. She had been shot in the head. Authorities said the boy alternately has confessed and denied he killed his sister.

Hill requested a hearing after Dr. William F. Lorenz, University of Wisconsin psychiatrist, said in a court report he believed Harold was innocent of the killing and was a pathological liar, and a Madison pathologist, Dr. S. B. Chessin, said Shaw died of poison.

At the hearing yesterday, Hill's first witness was Mary Blessin, superintendent of the Richmond Center hospital where Shaw was treated. She identified the hospital records relating to Shaw.

Dr. W. A. Sannes, Soldiers Grove, the Shaw family physician, testified Shaw died of complications from gall bladder, kidney and heart ailments.

Dr. Lorenz described the results of the truth serum and lie detector tests on Harold.

Mrs. Mildred Shaw, wife of the dead man, was in court but was not called as a witness. Harold was not at the hearing.

Truck Drivers and Employers Sign Up Trial Agreements

30-Day Pact Provides Higher Wages, Regulated Hours

Trials agreements involving an increased wage scale, regulated hours and recognition of Local 306 of the truck drivers, teamsters, chauffeurs and helpers union, were to be signed today by eight building and material dealers Harold Douglas, business agent, said.

Declining to reveal the exact wage schedule agreed upon after a week's deliberation before H. Herman Rauch, member of the state labor relations board, Douglas said it was considered a temporary settlement and was to be tried out for 30 days on an experimental basis.

A strike was called about two weeks ago but a truce was made when dealers consented to arbitrate in the present of a labor relations board representative. Negotiations came to an end yesterday and the contracts were to be signed by the following companies today: Ideal Lumber and Coal Co.; Marston Bros. Co.; Balliet Supply Co.; Guenther Supply Co.; Henry Schabo and Son; Buchert Coal Co.; Van Dyck Coal Co.; John Haug and Son.

WITHDRAWS

Grover A. Whalen (above) has withdrawn from the New York mayoralty race. He has been replaced as the New Deal standard-bearer by former Judge Jeremiah Titus Mahoney.

Owners of Neenah And Menasha Car Shops Sign Pacts

Agreements Provide for "Closed Shops" and Higher Wages

Fourteen owners of independent auto repair shops in Neenah and Menasha, three repair shop owners and one auto dealer in Appleton and one auto repair shop owner in Kaukauna have signed agreements with the auto mechanics union, officials of the union declared today.

The agreements provide for a "closed shop," 48-hour week and increased wages. Walter Nowak, secretary of the union, said the shops at Neenah and Menasha, which had been closed voluntarily, are operating. Negotiations have not been opened as yet with the automobile dealers in the Twin Cities whose repair departments have been closed since Saturday noon when a strike was called, Nowak said.

Political observers believe that Mahoney, although perhaps not so well known as Whalen to most voters, had greater strength within the Democratic organization itself. In addition to the "reform" elements within Tammany, he was supported by Democratic leaders of the Bronx, Brooklyn, Staten Island and Queens.

Mahoney was viewed by close observers as a formidable contender for the liberal vote hitherto conceded to La Guardia.

Commission to Hold 4 Hearings at City Hall

Four hearings under the workmen's compensation act will be conducted by the industrial commission at the city hall Friday.

A 2-hour case of Mrs. Florence Endian versus Bernard Endian will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning and the claim of Morris Nelson versus Martin's Creamery will be heard at 11 o'clock before the examiners.

Kalamazoo Stove & Havens versus Kalamazoo Stove & Havens will begin at 1:30 in the afternoon and the case of the late Roland F. Yonts against Wisconsin Bridge and Iron Company is scheduled for 2:30.

Name Two School Board Committees

Resignations of Five Teachers Accepted at Meeting

C. K. Boyer, Dr. G. T. Hegner and Attorney Homer H. Benton were named as the educational committee of the board of education at a meeting in the Lincoln school last night. J. F. Behnke, John Wood and R. F. McGillan were appointed to the maintenance committee.

Approval was given to a six inch distributing main and a six inch turbine type meter, to the installation of a heavy beam electric meter, to the purchase of an electric centrifugal pump and to arrangement of the boiler room so a fourth boiler could be added later at the new high school.

Resignations of five teachers, Miss Lena Carley, first grade teacher at the Washington school; John Feiter, manual arts instructor of the Roosevelt high school; Sadie Storzbach, home economics teacher at the senior high school; Leonard Delfarre and Leonard Sprague, history teachers at the senior high school, were accepted.

The monthly construction grants for the new high were voted.

Births

A daughter was born Aug. 3 to Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Fries at Madison. Dr. Fries is teaching during the summer session at the University of Wisconsin.

A daughter was born Wednesday to Dr. and Mrs. Bachhuber, 111 E. Fourth street, Kaukauna, at St. Elizabeth hospital.

$10 in Pennies Stolen

Ten dollars in pennies were taken from the J. Keoppel tavern in North Seymour, which was entered sometimes after 12 o'clock last night, it was reported to the sheriff's department and county highway police. Entrance was gained by breaking a lock in the rear of the building. A check was being made today to find whether anything else was taken.

Whalen Won't Run But New York City Sees Bitter Fight

Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney Replaces Him as New Deal Candidate

New York — (U) — The fight between New Deal Democrats and anti-Roosevelt Tammany hall for the mayoralty nomination was more sharply defined today with the withdrawal of Grover A. Whalen as a candidate.

Other complications remained, however, to confuse Gotham's voting millions in the pre-primary campaign.

Replacing Whalen as the Democratic bearer of the New Deal banner was former Judge Jeremiah Titus Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic union and bitter foe of the present leadership of Tammany hall.

Opposed to him for the Democratic nomination Sept. 16 was United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, Roosevelt critic who is backed by former Governor Alfred E. Smith and dominant Tammany chiefs.

Fought against both Mahoney and Copeland was astute little Fiorello La Guardia, endorsed by the American Labor party last night as "the greatest mayor the city of New York has ever had."

Fight Within Party

The withdrawal of Whalen, former police commissioner, promised a two-fisted intra-party fight with in Democratic ranks before the primary—with the outspoken Judge Mahoney as the spearhead of a drive to wrest control of Tammany from anti-New Deal forces.

Whalen gave the signal for the onslaught in his withdrawal statement:

"Judge Mahoney is far better equipped than I to wage a fight against the interests which have succeeded in securing temporary possession of Tammany hall and are striving to dominate the Democratic organizations in the other four boroughs (Tammany covers only Manhattan borough) and to secure control of the city of New York."

Mahoney said he would run as "no man's man."

"Our party organization for some time has been conducted and managed in the selfish interest and for the profit of a selected few," he said. "That is not my idea of organization."

Political observers believe that Mahoney, although perhaps not so well known as Whalen to most voters, had greater strength within the Democratic organization itself. In addition to the "reform" elements within Tammany, he was supported by Democratic leaders of the Bronx, Brooklyn, Staten Island and Queens.

Mahoney was viewed by close observers as a formidable contender for the liberal vote hitherto conceded to La Guardia.

Urges Close Check on Home Study Courses

Persons contemplating taking home study courses are advised by H. J. Van Straten, Outagamie county superintendent of schools to first ascertain whether the course has been filed with the state superintendent.

Under a new law, drawn to stamp out the correspondence school "racket," schools now offering home study courses must submit them to the state superintendent and file an indemnity bond.

driving mechanisms being sufficiently constant in speed to make that unnecessary. How constant that speed must be is understood when it is explained that in the transmission of a picture the tiny beam of light travels a total of 12,000 inches over the surface of the picture and ends up within a sixtieth of an inch or less of the predetermined end point. This fine degree of accuracy is achieved by controlling the driving motors with a vibrating tuning fork which does not vary its frequency or pitch by more than one ten-millionth of the rate of speed desired.

More than 70 members of the Associated Press now use wirephoto and nearly every member benefits from the speed of moving pictures by wires through the telecast service, which services newspapers.

No synchronization is necessary with news picture mats made from between stations, the individual wirephoto pictures.

Grain Yield High As Threshing Gets Underway in County

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh — After a survey of Winnebago county this week, R. C. Heffernan, county agent found threshing under way in all sections of the county with grain running in most cases higher than expected. He stated yields of grain have reported from 45 to 62 bushels to the acre. Climbing cutworms in a few sections reduced yields considerable as well as rust and excessive lodging. New seedings were considered promising and he predicted that with the rain this week they should come along nicely.

A few bad infestations of yellow dwarf in potatoes were reported to the county agent's office. Farmers suspecting this infestation, he urged should report it immediately. He stated that Professor Vaughn of the college of agriculture would be in Winnebago county next week, and announced farmers having this trouble would be visited.

bombing Chinese troops near Kalgan to halt all advance into Peking. As the columns moved through Peiping, two American photographers were beaten over the head and jostled to prevent them from taking pictures. They were Sheridan Fahnestock, 23-year-old New Yorker, and Bonny Powell, news reel cameraman.

Two other columns marched steadily closer to central government troops south of the ancient dragon capital.

General Chiang's declaration before China's educators, reiterated his stand of two weeks ago when he told them China was prepared to "face the worst" in the North China hostilities with Japan.

The "strong man" acknowledged overwhelming handicaps in the struggle, but declared Nanking was "swamped with nation-wide indications" of a determination to resist further Japanese encroachment.

He said the "spontaneous response" indicated a unified China stood behind the government's position, from which "there is no turning back."

The government has plans, he said, which "I believe will enable us to strike effectively when the time to show our hand has arrived."

American missions in North China which missionaries feared might be obliterated if the crisis spread to those of Catholic, Methodist, Presbyterian and Adventist churches and the American Board of Missions.

Schools Threatened

Schools whose existence were believed endangered included the Rockefeller-Pekin Union Medical college, Catholic university, the Yenching university. In Hopeh province alone American missionary property includes 21 hospitals and 762 churches.

On the Shanghai American emergency committee were specialists in communication, transportation, food supply, medicine, housing and registration. Gauss said that the committee was putting into execution a long established formula all American communities in China have for use whenever needed.

Communication with all Americans is being attempted, establishing their whereabouts and issuing instructions for their procedure if a concentration is ordered.

Other consular districts all over China were undertaking like precautions, although Americans outside the North China war zone did not view the situation as necessitating their evacuation. All were advising on their normal pursuits without anticipating any disruption.

The situation was startlingly different, however, in the railway quarters where Chinese gave in to their fears that danger of a Japanese occupation of this city was at hand.

2 Questioned in Tavern Holdup, Abduction Cases

Federal Agents and St. Paul Police Grill Prisoners

Hurley, Wis. — (U) — Federal agents and St. Paul police today questioned two men, who were arrested yesterday after a tavern robbery, regarding the abduction and robbing of a cab driver in Minneapolis Monday night and the abduction of a St. Paul cab driver Tuesday night.

The St. Paul cab driver, Thomas Malone, 62, was taken to Odanah, Wis., where he was stripped of his clothes and thrown out after a beating, the officers said the men admitted. The men gave their names as Osmo Kangas, 22, and Nelson Peterson, 23. The latter yesterday said his name was Jack Meguire. Malone identified them as the man who sat on him in the rear seat of the cab whenever they stopped for gasoline on the way here.

Howard I. Bobbett and C. H. Kass, federal agents from Superior, said Kangas is a deserter from the army. Lieutenant Ray Duggins of the St. Paul police questioned the men here this morning and, after obtaining their statements, returned to St. Paul. He said the St. Paul police would await action by the federal government in the case.

Kangas was reared in Hurley. Recently he was in the infantry at Ft. Snelling, Peterson said his home town is Sawyer, Minn.

Malone told the officers that his abductors discussed plans to rob a gas station along the way, but at each stop decided there were too many persons around.

Local officers have not yet filed charges against the men.

Forecast Warmer Weather Tonight

Little Relief From Blazing Sun in Sight Friday

Little relief from a blazing sun is in sight and the weather man predicts slightly warmer weather tonight. Fair skies are forecast for the entire state Friday. A slight breeze today eased the 95-degree temperature registered atop the Post-Crescent building at noon.

Highest and lowest temperatures reported by the Associated Press in the nation yesterday show Phoenix with 110 degrees and Yellowstone with 48.

The rules of the club provide that membership fees must be paid before the September meeting if the member wishes to remain in good standing. After the business session cards were played and refreshments were served.

Chief of Police John Bernardy has issued a warning that speeding in the village by motorists must stop. He asserted that for the last month arrests for speeding were few but during the last week the situation has grown worse. The speed limit through the village is 15 miles per hour.

Final plans for the annual bazaar and picnic Aug. 22 will be made by the women of the Holy Name parish when they meet at the schoolhouse Friday evening after church services.

THE GOVERNOR AND THE HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Governor LaFollette's declaration that he has cracked down on all proposals to divert state highway funds to other purposes is in keeping with the continued intelligence and determination that must direct the course of our highway building program.

Different years will always bring varying figures. But the tourist business of this state will always rank near first place among its industries in the dollar returns it brings. Only so long may this be expected, however, as Wisconsin follows a reasonable practice of providing the hundreds of thousands who come here every summer with good hotels, hospitable treatment, cool waters infested by many fighting fish, shady nooks "on babbling brooks," camping sites and—above all things—good, smooth, safe and wide roads.

In fact these highways are indispensable to the continuance of the tourist business. Though the governor stressed the completion of the highways in the northern and western parts of the state one may see all over Wisconsin further demands in rebuilding old roads that were started before the war and when highway construction was not so well understood nor so carefully developed as today.

Moreover our greater arteries of travel must be widened as they approach densely populated areas, else undue congestion with all its manifold evils is bound to develop.

Good roads in Wisconsin not only mean good dollar business but, from other standpoints, altogether desirable business and business developing at a swift pace. There is no cleaner industry than providing for the wholesome recreation of people who have put by from their wages a sum to be expended in refreshing amusement, the preserver and extender of life.

To take funds from this highway work would be as sensible as the plant manager who, with orders piled high on his desk, and no further room in his workshop thought of expending his available means for any purpose than extension and improvement of his own plant.

FARM HELP

Bumper crops are usually heralded as a blessing to the farmer.

Sound prices for the produce of the soil are equally necessary.

But there is usually a black spider in every setting, and today the farmer faces an inability to obtain necessary labor at anything like a reasonable price.

Judged from the news articles in many papers coming to the editorial desk farmers are bidding as high as $4 a day plus hearty and excellent table, in order to get men to leave their comfortable situation upon the relief rolls.

Of course those men are quick to leave who are the right kind of men.

But unfortunately the country is supporting in a satisfactory condition to themselves quite a number of millions who won't even stir to get in the harvests they expect the government will buy for them so they may eat.

We need to transfer to this country a legend that may have started in the Killarney lakes. It is the story of the man who became so backward in looking out for himself that his kindly neighbors, tired of carrying his load, finally determined to bury him. Even this threat did not arouse the man to weeding his own arden. So his saddened friends finally piled him into a rough box and started toward the graveyard. On the way they met another kindly soul who wanted to know what it was all about. When told that the little group of marchers had tired of supporting the man who was lying in the box the soft-hearted inquirer offered to provide enough corn to keep the fellow alive another year. At these words the resident of the box arose and asked, "Is the corn shelled?" When informed that it was not he ordered "March on."

May we not, however, submit for the consideration of farmers who cannot employ suitable help at anything like a reasonable figure and thus see the profit upon which they counted going out the window, that a great many voices in America have been consistently raised to stop relief money or relief rules from pouring out of Washington excepting as local communities can establish their inability to take care of the financial burden.

When Washington for purposes of votes and popularity overruled a principle of government as old as the hills and as proven as gold, it created the situation that now confronts the American farmer.

A NEW PHILOSOPHY

Plans to double the capacity of a seaside chemical factory near Wilmington, Del., are announced by Dr. Willard H. Dow, president of a company which is extracting bromine from sea water. The bromine gives anti-knock fuel its distinctive ruddy color.

The doubled capacity of the plant, Dr. Dow says, will enable the company to step up production to 10,000 tons of sea bromine annually.

Company technicians have identified 11 other minerals in the sea water pumped through the plant. Present are gold, silver, epsom salts, calcium, potassium chloride. Could chemists profitably reclaim the last-named, Dr. Dow says, sea water pumped this year would supply fertilizer for 1,000,000 acres of farm land.

Dr. Dow suggests interesting possibilities. Of course, they are not new. The dream of reclaiming gold from sea water is almost as alluring as the dream of the alchemists of the Middle Ages who sought the magic formula for the conversion of base metals into gold. And nearly as many men have sought the secret as have tinkered with perpetual motion machines. The suggestion, however, serves to direct attention to advances in chemistry which, too infrequently, attract general notice.

The scientists have been telling us for years that the "age of chemistry" is to succeed the industrial age. There are indications that we may find ourselves in the new age without the economic wrenchings that have marked other transitional periods in the Nation's history.

Strange products of the test tube and retort already are accepted casually. There are the plastics, the finishes of motor cars, rayon, to name only a few.

The new age that is upon us, holds great hope.

Science, and chemistry, may for the first time in history point the way to co-operative and creative effort in which everyone is the gainer and no one the loser.

Speaking before a gathering of scientists in Detroit recently, Dr. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said that all previous orders of society have been based on the "philosophy of grab" new and characteristically American is the "philosophy of create."

And, he added, modern applied science gives mankind "for the first time in the history of the human race a way of securing a more abundant life which does not simply consist of taking it away from someone else. It creates wealth and opportunity where they did not exist before."

ECONOMIC NOTE

The business of clamping down on railroad hoboes may be accepted as another indication of better times. Too, as railroad executives point out, it is a life-saving measure.

In either case, it will be a healthy reform if a vigilant policy against ride-hooking is maintained by trainmen.

One notices that nearly every train drops at least one hobo from tender or coal gondola. Some trains bring more.

Even with recognition of all considerations of charity and benevolence, these are persons no city wants to welcome.

There are provisions in most localities for the care of the homeless and the destitute. There is work, especially on farms, for able-bodied men.

The hope of those who have watched one, two or half a dozen "floaters" crawl from locomotive tenders to panhandle their ways toward the center of town is that the railroad executives' ruling can be made to stick.

Opinions Of Others

THE POLITICAL MULE

Present-day cartoonists, a political purist insists, are making a serious mistake when they use a donkey as the symbol of the Democratic party. Indeed, this heresy is committed by some leaders of the party itself, and tends to be accepted by the public.

As a matter of fact, the authentic symbol is the mule, said to have been fastened upon the party by James A. Garfield in a celebrated speech before a Republican convention. He characterized the opposition party as "like the mule, with neither pride of ancestry nor hope of progress." A new generation that is largely ignorant of the facts of life, regarding this particular breed of burden, misses the implications and accepts the donkey substitute. Perhaps the political cartoonists should be instructed to correct this biological error.

The party, of course, would never have accepted a mule's furry-eared mother as a fitting emblem. It did, after a period of indignation, accept the half-horse as a symbol of stubbornness, strength and long life.—Kenosha Evening News.

Debate about the 18th amendment the use of alcohol in any confection or candy is still treated an adulteration and is barred by the nation's pure food and drug laws.

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

FOLLOWING is a mellowed manuscript rejected by Jonah during my stoned days. Not much he can do about it now—

WHICH ARE YOU?

Just as in a game of golf, we find dubs, average players, professionals and experts in the game of life. There are those that are dismal failures; those that are somewhat interested but content with their lot; those that are considered successful and aspire to better things, and those that attain the better things and produce score cards equalled by few.

A dub is one who blames his tools, condemns unintentional distractions and questions the teaching ability of his instructor. He rarely finds the real cause for his failure to hit the ball or his inability to sink a putt.

The average player does not desire progress. He is considered a good fellow but is not sought for advice and counsel. He may or may not be concerned about a poorly-timed blow or an are-like course taken by his carelessly chosen ball.

The professional is constantly seeking new methods in order to improve his technique. He is respected by those less proficient and his opinions are heeded by those of equal rank.

An expert perfects his grip. He experiments with a variety of balls and brands of clubs until he is fully equipped. He then sets out to display his skill and is ultimately hailed as a champion. Before taking a shot, he surveys the situation providently. He observes all fundamental factors and is fully aware where his ball will come to rest.

Which are you?

One finds himself continually in the rough. His score card signifies lack of preparation and inadequate judgment. He expects handicaps and concessions to balance his total score.

Another wistfully bats down the fairway of happiness. He accepts good and bad strokes with the same degree of docility. He merely aims at par.

The game holds no enjoyment for the third. It has become a means of realizing pecuniary ambitions. He shoots for a birdie.

The accomplished, fourth type of player wields the correct instruments at the proper moments. He can assure himself that he will reach the blissful green of self-satisfaction. He strives for an eagle.

Which member of this foursome will you be when the last flag is replaced in the cup? Will your clubs be discarded—allowed to rust and stain—or will they be polished and preserved as an example for future players? How will you tally with that infinite Scorekeeper?

HOUSEWORK VISITS

We like our "housework visits." And do our tasks together. With hands in snowy soapuds. We talk about the weather.

There is no phase of living That we do not discuss. But all our "housework visits" Are centered around us!

There is so much of interest When little daughters chatter! The tiniest of problems Is an important matter;

And having "housework visits" Is such a lot of fun. Almost before we know it, The housework is all done! (Copyright, 1937)

Establishing an airdrome in the Sixth ward park, called Erb park, would be entirely against the interests of the people in the city and particularly against interests of the children, in the opinion of Alderman Fred Wiese of the Sixth ward. The issue was raised when Philipp Vogt, the second alderman from the ward, expressed himself in favor of establishing an airdrome in the unwooded section of the park. Announcement of the engagement of Miss Marie Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Richardson, 824 E. Pacific street, to Heber H. ## THE DYSPETIC'S FAMILY MUST EAT

It is too bad that the well members of the family of an invalid who has peptic ulcer have to hold back for the invalid's sake.

Here is a menu list for twenty-one meals, with the items the patient can eat marked with x's. Sit right down, folks, here's where everybody gets a break.

Since it is generally advisable for one with marked hyperacidity or with known stomach or duodenal ulcer to take six meals instead of three meals daily, the patient may have a glass of half milk half cream between meals and at bedtime, and perhaps a shredded wheat or better still a wheat germ biscuit with it. An ounce of shredded wheat contains 60 units, an ounce of wheat germ 350 units of vitamin B, and vitamin B is very good for peptic ulcer.

If a woman and August 6 is your birthday, you may be a bit too independent to work successfully with a partner. You are self-reliant and accustomed to acting on your own responsibility and if given free rein can generally get excellent results. Quiet is necessary for you to do your best work or for you to engage in constructive thinking that will bear satisfactory deductions. You may come into possession of wealth through your own effort or by inheritance. You should display excellent taste in the selection of your clothing, household furnishings, and in arranging furniture. Through teaching, singing, writing, selling, or some form of professional entertaining, you may win for yourself an enviable reputation. Domestic relationship conditions are unusually auspicious, so marriage appears to typify happiness for you.

The child born on August 6 is frequently gifted with a quick wit and a fluent tongue. If in its early youth these qualities are recognized, they may be profitably employed when it embarks on a career.

If a man and August 6 is your natal day, you may get your best results whenever you have the chance of personally contacting people you have business with. As an engineer, architect, politician, artist, author, doctor, clergyman, salesman or lawyer, you may score a great success.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER
New York. Down the aisle and into the orchestra pit with Ted Lewis.

"Well, well, back on Broadway, after four years. . . And it does not mean a squashed fig, really. . . I was dying to get back to town, but I hadn't unpacked before I was ready to leave again. . . That's what 20 years of sleep-jumping does to you, I suppose. . . You jump from town to town, you meet nice people, then you get away from them and want to go back."

"Out there it's different, no flukes and phonies—why, let me tell you right now that out in San Antonio the people are taking the afternoon breeze, children are playing in the shady parks, and the doves are whistling home to the trees."

"When I think of Indianapolis I think of the Old Soldiers' monument, and of James Whitcomb Riley, my favorite poet. . . In Omaha I played golf with E. J. Brandeis. . . On the seventh of July, said, 'E. J., when are you going to give Omaha back to Omaha?' That startled him so much that he sliced a drive into the rough, and I won the match."

"Miami gets me excited because of the hours I battled with those leaping, tackle-smashing swordfish. . . I've never landed one, but I bet you I get one this winter. . . I've got a fishing date right now for February with Mayor Fossey. . . When I think of Circleville, Ohio, where I was born, I think of Columbus, a suburb of Circleville. . . You can make a lot of money in those suburbs, which enables you to return to the city, I mean Circleville, and acquire your meth-way."

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—Debate on the Supreme Court has offered a grand opportunity for young fellows in congress to display their leadership.

Senator Minton of Indiana, of the class of 1934, gloried in the debate and displayed keen ability at that most difficult senatorial feat, the give and take on the floor. It is no kindergarten trick to stand on the floor and fence with a half dozen senators, all packed with information and caustic retorts.

Minton could do it, although seasoned by but two years in the senate. At times he did it almost too well and flavored his debate with an occasional sub-caliber jibe. Senator Schwelienbach of Washington occupied a quiet corner during initial stages of debate but got in on some of the heckling. He had received his filibuster training earlier. It was he who organized the "Young Turks" who broke Huey Long's filibuster.

Guffey Beseiges
Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania, while no youngster in age or politics, is another of the class of 1934 who, like Minton and Schwelienbach, donned his armor to war for the court bill. Guffey waxed scholarly and cited cases and precedents, although few before and fewer since suspected him of such deep research into the doings of the court in 150 years past.

But Guffey recognized his limitations in the give and take of debate and prefaced his speech with a warning that he would allow no interruptions while he read his prepared piece. He didn't. But Wheeler of Montana and his cohorts were laying for him when he finished and soon had the Pennsylvania on the ropes. Ultimately he sat down in the face of a barrage of questions, declining to answer them.

Senator Burke of Nebraska, also of the class of 1934, was the principal "youngster" trying out his mettle on the side of the opposition, ranking almost with the senatorial veteran, Wheeler of Montana, in the volume of his attack. But Burke is a kindly soul, and parries where he might thrust.

Maverick Warning
The shining light among the fighting youngsters in the house is that voluble Texan, Maury Maverick. He grabbed the ball early in the game by tearing off a copy of the court bill as it came from the White House, signing his own name to it and flinging it into the hopper.

Since then he had written and spoken for the bill and organized a following. He persistently denounces any assertion that the people are against the measure. Members of congress who oppose the bill, he says, "won't come back."

Incidentally that is a risk any youngster takes in "getting his neck out" on a basis issue such as the court bill. History records that a number of youngsters who went in over their heads for the League of Nations subsequently lost their pants.

Warsaw, Poland.—(AP)—Adding to a growing list of permits, the Polish government now requires that all persons residing in the frontier zone get permission to remain there. Other regulations deal with the building or demolition of buildings, felling of trees, ownership of radios and cameras.

A person must have a permit if he wants to move in the middle of the night.

The Carpathians, which contain most of the places that interest tourists, fall in the frontier zone. So does the sea shore.

The truly bright spot in the haze is that the permits are free.

MERGE SPORTS, WAR
Berlin.—(AP)—According to district leader Helmut Strellrecht, writing for the Reichs Youth press service, "Sports are ever more tending towards military exercises. This may not apply so much to the older classes, but it does to the younger ones."

"The athletic championships to be held at Nurnberg this fall will show how our lads are shaping for the army," Strellrecht said. "Every district in the Reich will be expected to send two picked teams of nine competitors for honors."

I like Minneapolis because Detective Cooch always gets me a police badge, and so there. . . In Oakland, Calif., I had plenty of fun dancing at the Athletic Club after playing a show at that beautiful theater there where the pictures of the stars are inlaid in the tile.

"I wouldn't dream of going to Texas without hopping down to Galveston and dawdling awhile by the old sea wall. . . Fort Worth is a great place for livestock auctions. . . I saw them trade away 500 mules one morning. . . One day in Portland, Ore., a drummer came up and shook hands. . . We became friends and have remained so for 18 years. . . What does it matter? . . . Any of those towns I've mentioned, and a thousand others we've mentioned, I never was much shucks at being a New Yorker any-way."

Lawrence Hits Democrats' New Book Sale Plan

Reports Publication Designed to Raise Campaign Funds

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—(7)—They may be "economic royalists" when President Roosevelt needs campaign ammunition for speeches, but they apparently are "economic angels" when money is needed to pay campaign bills.

Undeterred by the criticism of the "racket" whereby the federal corrupt practices act was violated in the sale of the Democratic campaign book to corporations, there now has arisen another enterprise for the purpose of paying the Democratic party's bills in the forthcoming congressional election. The corporations of the nation are already being solicited with that object frankly admitted.

Many corporation executives have just received a letter written on stationery, the letter head of which reads "The Democratic Register, official organ of the Democratic National Congressional committee, room 146, House of Representatives office building, Washington D. C."

The communication reads as follows: "We take the opportunity of writing this letter in order to explain to you about 'The Democratic Register' and to express our desire to see your organization amply represented in this exceptional medium."

"This publication, which is the official organ of this committee of the seventy-fifth congress, will have a circulation of more than 200,000 copies, each of which will be personally mailed by the 435 congressmen and sent to influential business men and industrial captains throughout the nation."

"The register comes as an answer to the requests, received here in Capitol hill, from the country's business leaders for a comprehensive catalogue of governmental departments and their functions, the biography and photographs of every congressman, excerpts from the congressional directory, coupled with exceptionally fine articles written by cabinet members regarding their departments."

Purpose of Fund
"We cannot hope to obtain our campaign fund from special interests and must rely upon some such plan as this to supplement aid we had hoped to obtain from another source. Every dollar of the proceeds derived from the publication of the register goes into this fund and is utilized for no other purpose."

"It is significant to note that the register is becoming a gigantic technical survey of the nation's industry by virtue of the vast amount of representative advertising carried and in the face of the administration's vast construction program which is definitely increasing the individual business of those organizations recognized by industry and governmental departments."

"We have asked our representative to call on you in the very near future and trust that you will give him your order."

It will be noted that, not content to speak on behalf of the Democrats in congress, this circular letter boldly ventures to speak on behalf of the Republicans, too, for it promises that the book is to be circulated by 435 congressmen, which is the total membership of the house of representatives.

The reference to the fact that the "administration's vast construction program" is definitely increasing the "individual business of those organizations recognized by industry and governmental departments" is a significant one and leads to the impression that the persons who have government contracts ought to "kick in" with a little of their profit to the Democratic congressional campaign fund.

It is not clear from the letter how the sponsors of the project can promise 200,000 circulation, since the copies are certainly not likely to be bought in large quantities by all members of congress. They would have to buy 460 copies apiece to fulfill the program.

Taken From Directory
Likewise the letter indicates clearly that much of the information is to be taken bodily from the congressional directory, which already contains biographies of members of congress, and short descriptions of the functions of government departments, commissions and bureaus.

Just why a campaign solicitation office is opened in the building of the house of representatives itself and contributions are solicited directly from corporations, who are forbidden under the federal corrupt practices act to make any contributions to political campaigns, might ordinarily be interesting to inquire about through the department.

ment of justice. But since nothing has happened with respect to the actual solicitation of contributions on the Democratic campaign book of 1936, the chances are the democratic chieftains figure they can be assured of immunity from prosecution for doing the same thing over again.

Corporation executives, as individuals, may make contributions to the campaign fund either by buying books or by direct gifts. But it is a violation of the statute to solicit any campaign contribution from a corporation. In the case of the Democratic fund, the purpose to which the funds are to be put, namely to "obtain our campaign fund," is plainly confessed on its face.

Representative Bert Snell, Republican leader, has received copies of the new solicitation letter, but since the Democrats have squelched committee action on his resolution of inquiry with respect to the 1936 campaign book put out by the Democratic National committee, he is not expecting that any attention will be paid by Democratic congressional leaders to this new enterprise. As a matter of fact, it isn't a subject for congressional inquiry at all, but for United States attorneys, who represent the law enforcement branch of the government of the United States and whose duty it is to prosecute all offenders, rich or poor, Democrats or Republicans, who violate the laws of the land.

He Holds 21 Jobs Just to Show World He Likes to Work

Omaha, Neb.—(7)—Twenty-one jobs keep Francis P. Matthews, Omaha attorney, on the jump day and night.

He is deputy supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, president of a saving and loan company, president of a securities acceptance corporation, counsel for the Nebraska and Wyoming division of the RFC, vice-president of the Omaha community chest, Nebraska representative on the New York World Fair advisory board, director of the Omaha Utilities district, and a member of numerous chambers of commerce, relief and social committees.

Matthews attends every meeting of the committees unless other work (and it's got to be important) keeps him away.

Until recently Matthews was active in politics, serving four years as chairman of the county central democratic committee, but the only public office he ever ran for was the Utilities district directorship.

"I enjoy it, that's why I do it," he says.

Club Gay With Flowers As Eighty Couples Dance At Summer Charity Ball

RIVerview Country club was gay with late summer flowers which had their counterpart in the flower-print formal worn by many of the guests at the annual summer charity ball of the Service circle of Appleton King's Daughters last night. A number of the new peasant type gowns with full skirts were in evidence at the dance, and the white suits of the men lent an airy note to the assembly.

Over 80 couples danced to the music of a local orchestra and between numbers sought the cool breezes of the verandah and club grounds. Punch was served during the evening.

Preceding the dance a number of dinner and cocktail parties and informal gatherings were held, some of them Dutch treat parties and others at the homes of individuals. Mr. and Mrs. William E. Waymire, 1708 N. Drew street, entertained at a cocktail party at their home for Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sauter, Mr. and Mrs. George Theiss, Mr. and Mrs. F. The crowd was a mixed one, including a large number of young married people as well as those of college and high school age. Most of the out-of-town guests were from nearby places, probably because the party was held in the middle of the week rather than a weekend.

The committee which arranged the party consisted of Mrs. Robert Roemer, chairman; Mrs. George Theiss, Mrs. H. Karl Schuetter, Miss Florence Verbrick, Mrs. Alex J. Manier, Miss Monica Cooney, Mrs. Norman Brown, Mrs. John Ash, Miss Lola Mae Zuelke, Appleton, and Mrs. Alvin Lang, Menasha.

Miss Anatomy Bares the Affairs of Her Heart

New York—If you have a feeling your heart's not in the right place, there's an easy way to check up on it.

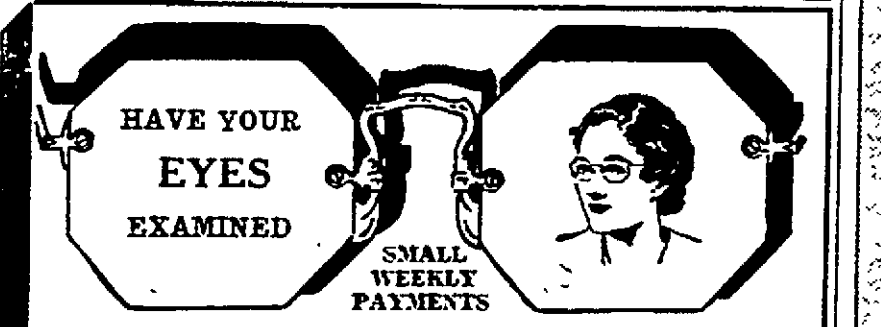

Miss Anatomy, latest addition to the Museum of Science and Industry in New York, will let you extract her heart from the proper spot, for a comparative study.

And you may be sure hers is located just where it should be, for the lady was created under the watchful eye of a corps of German physicians and surgeons.

Nothing's Private

She's a German girl, standing five feet six inches in her bare feet. Sympathetic spectators note a frightened look in her soft brown eyes when the curtains are parted and spotlights pour relentlessly down on her. She seems to have a debutante slouch, too, but that illusion is created by her intricate hinging.

She's very patient about it all when the museum demonstrator starts taking her apart. He has a regular routine, taking out her

Gross Public Debt Is $436 Per Capita

National Industrial Confer- ence Board Lays It Most- ly to Federal Rise

The gross public debt of the United States amounted to $436.39 per capita on June 30, 1937, according to an estimate made by the National Industrial Conference Board, which points out that as recently as June 30, 1929, the per capita public debt was only $277.23. The latest figure is based on a total public debt of slightly more than $56,000,000,000.

The Federal debt was $281.63 per capita on June 30, 1937, which is comparable with $129.06 on Dec. 31, 1930, when the lowest point of the post-war period was reached. In the period from 1930 to 1937, when the Federal debt more than doubled, State and local debts showed only minor changes, the estimate shows.

The large deficit incurred by the Federal government accounts almost exclusively for the increase in per capita public debt, the board finds. For the period from Jan. 1, 1931, when the Treasury began running at a deficit, or gross deficit less public debt retirements, exceeded $19,500,000,000. For the same period the gross deficit was more than $22,000,000,000.

The board maintains that the increase in public debt is not the result of the difference between expenditures and tax collections, as is frequently assumed. Each year the government obtains a large amount of receipts from non-tax sources, such as special assessments, earnings of general departments and public service enterprises, interest, and fines and fees.

George Meier turned up in a tight-fitting silk dress to be interviewed by Ray Thomas, the I-hope, I-hope salesman. This brought a howl from the crowd, which was entertained by the salesman's efforts to sell silk hose. It was reported some of the campers were so fooled by George as Miss Smith that they tried to get dates after the program.

Dick Marx and Don Rosenberg offered a piano duo and the program ended with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Deck of Cards Is of Best Quality If It Stands Up for Thousand Deals

Chicago—(AP)—How to foil folks who'd like to read their opponents' hands—that's a fundamental problem in making playing cards.

The answer, says a Chicago company, is black paste. Used to glue together two sheets of heavy paper, it prevents the spots from showing through.

It's 'Women's Fault' — The company, which says it sells three million decks a year, blames women for the size of bridge cards. Poker players want, and get, their cards large—one and one-half by three and one-half inches. This was regulation size for all cards until women took up bridge and found it made a fan too large to hold comfortably. So bridge decks were designed a quarter of an inch narrower.

Instead of using a patented trade mark, manufacturers earmark their designs by giving the king's whiskers an original curve, or the jack a slightly different smirk.

What Determines Cost — How much you pay for a deck depends on how many colors are used for the backs, whether the cards are run through a linen press to give them a rough surface and whether the edges are sprayed with imitation gold dust or laid with real gold leaf.

If you're interested in quality, keep a record of your deals. A deck that holds up for 500 must have been made of pretty good paper. It takes first-rate stuff to make a 1,000-deal deck.

Small City Plot Gives Farmer 'Soup to Nuts'

Fort Worth, Texas—(AP)—Seventy-nine-year-old T. R. Sandridge is a city man showing country folks how to live on a city farm.

On less than an acre, Sandridge raises enough produce to keep him and his wife supplied with food for a year, and in addition has a miniature plot of wheat which he says would yield 30 bushels to the acre if he had an acre. He uses the wheat for chicken feed.

Sandridge's land produces up to 70 quarts of beans annually. From his one blackberry vine he harvests four gallons of berries every year. Last year he shelled 82 pounds of pop corn from another corner of his city farm in a residential district here.

He also raises peanuts, tomatoes, onions, potatoes, grapes, and alfalfa, real gold leaf.

Vienna—(AP)—The Austrian soldier ambitious to become an officer or specialist must match his wits against a tough array of men and machines.

To investigate his emotional stability, the prospective officer is shown pictures of a murder, a badly mutilated war victim, an airplane crash, and various erotic subjects. His breathing tells his reactions through an apparatus strapped to his chest.

All Kinds of Gadgets — To ascertain concentration, he is taken before a revolving belt covered with circles, squares, crosses and lines. Only a part of the belt is exposed at a time. Whenever a bell rings he is expected to do three things at once, such as covering blue squares with red discs, counting all yellow squares as they appear, and transferring other discs from one compartment to another.

If he wishes to become an aviator, he must look into a strong light and then read a series of letters in a dark room while the time he requires is clocked off. This is the night blindness test.

Then he goes to a long table where three foot-high pins at one end are attached to pulleys at the other and 20 feet distant. Sighting through narrow slits, he must move the pulleys until the pins are even. If he can't do this satisfactorily he hasn't the ability to discern ground objects from an airplane.

If he wants to become a chauffeur, he must get into a modified automobile and steer, stop and accelerate according to instructions flashed on a screen before him.

Finally, he must indicate his intelligence and book knowledge in a written examination administered by a battery of officers and psychologists.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 soldiers take the tests every year, perfected by Major Kurt Feshmer on the basis of findings by American and German psychologists and military men.

REFRIGERATOR NOTE

The family of four or five requires a refrigerator with at least six cubic feet of space. Seven cubic feet is even better. When selecting a refrigerator choose one large enough to store fruits and vegetables as well as meats, and dairy products.

Quakes Not New

"The recent quake was so severe that residents fled to higher ground inland. Many buildings were demolished or their foundations were made unsafe by the quivering earth. Three thousand tons of pumice, blown by frequent explosions from the crater of a nearby volcano, covered some portions of the town a foot deep. And then came a great wave of sea water from the harbor whose bed had been raised by the seismic disturbance. Lack of water in the harbor temporarily left large cargo boats careened on mud banks, and an island, formerly low, rose to 60 feet above the water."

"Such disasters are not new to Rabaul. Old residents recall that their town was somewhat similarly stricken in February 1878, when an earthquake of major proportions

Rabaul Residents Are Accustomed To Earthquakes

Must Be a Severe One to Make Them Leave Their Homes

Washington, D. C.—Residents of Rabaul, New Britain Island, in the Southwestern Pacific, which was badly damaged by an earthquake, now are returning to their homes and resuming normal trade. The 5,000 inhabitants, of which 4,000 are natives, and the remainder whites, Chinese and Japanese, will be employed for days repairing buildings and clearing debris from the streets.

"Rabaul, the largest town and capital of New Britain, is situated at the western end of the crescent-shaped island, and is in a zone accustomed to earthquakes, showers of volcanic ash and devastating waves," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"But, unless the shocks and eruptions are extremely severe, the natives merely shrug their shoulders and go about their usual tasks undisturbed."

shook it like a leaf in the breeze, a new island rose in the harbor, and a great wave swept inland.

"New Britain, which is the largest of the islands in the Bismarck Archipelago, lies about 50 miles off the northeast coast of New Guinea and like many of its neighbors in the Southwestern Pacific, is of volcanic origin. Throughout its 370 miles of length, a high mountain range, with peaks rising to more than 7,000 feet, forms a lofty backbone.

Cannibalism Rampant — "The island is only a short distance below the Equator and lush tropical vegetation blankets the mountains and valleys; but trade winds so temper the atmosphere for many months of the year that the climate is not oppressive. Seldom does the thermometer touch one hundred degrees."

"While the greater portion of the island has been explored, civilization, for the most part, has penetrated only a narrow coastal zone. The natives are Papuans who wear little more than a loin cloth and metal arm bands. Most of them are employed in gathering coconuts and cocoa."

"Before white men established themselves at Rabaul and other towns on New Britain, the natives were cannibals, infamous among the early mariners for their treachery and cunning. Tribes were constantly attempting to annihilate one another. Even now there is some danger in traveling through villages of isolated tribes, although missionaries and agents of Australia, of which the island is a mandated territory have made great strides in wiping out cannibalism."

Construction Jobs Absorbing Labor; Farmers Need Help

With no response to repeated requests for farmhands and farmers placing more orders for help, an unusual situation exists here, says Fred S. Gehrke, manager of the Appleton office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service.

The local problem reflects the national situation where labor preferences and has been greatly exacerbated by federal public works and private projects. Gehrke said. Economic conditions have changed from four years ago when farm help was plentiful.

Construct, a work, both private and public, has absorbed many men who would otherwise be on a farm. Men with families are obligated to accept only with comparative higher wages. The country still construction revived and is now swinging toward the end, he said.

Do not despair, he says, for in advance for summer working. They willow catch up in winter. If the farming has to be postponed, carefully shake out the camp articles to dry. They may easily be resprinkled.

The unemployed part of the island where cannibalism may be, or is in the central part of New Britain; both ends of the island long have been dominated by Apatani officials."

Indian Week Program Opens At Gardner Dam Scout Camp

Gardner Dam — Indian week proved to be a real gathering of all the tribes of the Valley council for campers discovered that nearly every community was represented in the registration list. Clintonville had the largest delegation with 23 registrants, 20 boys, followed by Troop 21 and Troop 30 with 11 and 10 scouts, respectively. Lawrence Krause of Clintonville was the lone entry from Troop 24. Marion's Troop 26 had its cabin filled with 10 scouts, while there were 70 odd scouts from Appleton, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and Seymour.

Herb Hartung, Waldo Friedland and Bob Ebbens increased the total Jamboree scouts at the camp, while Hal and Howard Olk of Clintonville also contributed to the total. Elton Mattoon and Tommy Kolosinski of Menasha were on hand to greet Jamboree scouts during the previous week.

Select Camp Names

Patrols and other troop units selected camp names for the week's session and the Indian theme was used. Troop 30's group took the name of Pontiac and a group from Troop 23 called their elves the Suckewanna patrol. This group included Hal Olk, Bill Stig, Harold Hauser, Willis Greb, Ralph Lendew, George Zoeh, Howard Olk, George Zechow and Glenn Krause.

Other units, their names and membership are: Chief Sitting Bull group—Owen Brown, Sam Atcherson, Henry Asche and Tim McCarthy; Troop 29 — Orville Marquardt, Walter Speckhard, Melvin Zuhse, Harold Mack, Harold Jesse, Roy Fillnow, Ronald Fillnow, Lewis Beer, Arthur and Lester Drumm.

Chief Sabotage patrol — Dean Arndt, Bill Bertman, Phil Bowers, Peter Hoffman, Bob Lacy, Burton Mayne, Junior Pfeiler, Tom Rogers, Willie Wessman and Norman Drace.

Gross Public Debt Is $436 Per Capita

The gross public debt of the United States amounted to $436.30 per capita on June 30, 1937, according to an estimate made by the National Industrial Conference Board, which points out that as recently as June 30, 1929, the per capita public debt was only $277.23. The latest figure is based on a total public debt of slightly more than $360,000,000,000.

The Federal debt was $261.62 per capita on June 30, 1937, which is comparable with $129.66 on Dec. 31, 1930, when the lowest point of the post-war period was reached. In the period from 1930 to 1937, when the Federal debt more than doubled, State and local debts showed only minor changes, the estimate shows.

The large deficit incurred by the Federal government accounts almost exclusively for the increase in per capita public debt, the board finds. For the period from Jan. 1, 1931, when the Treasury began running at a deficit, or gross deficit, the total public debt retirements exceeded $19,500,000,000. For the same period the gross deficit was more than $22,000,000,000.

The board maintains that the increase in public debt is not equivalent to the difference between expenditures and tax collections, as is frequently assumed. Each year the government obtains a large amount of receipts from non-tax sources, such as special assessments, earnings of general departments and public service enterprises, interest, and fines and fees.

First Fishing Like Bait Broke Up the First Fishing Hike of the week and the commingled soaked by a sudden shower that drove even the fish away. Bill Spalding led the hike which ended abruptly and the campers returned to Gardner Dam to change into dry clothes.

Reporting after the trip, Spalding said that Orville Marquardt, Art Drumm, Harold Mack, Lester Drumm, Ronald Fillnow, Bentley Greb and Don Rosenberg are candidates who would be favored by the Frank Walton league. Despite their drenching, the boys planned another trip on their way back home.

Two-day's stunt night turned out to be one of the outstanding programs of the season. It was a happy group of campers who sang and laughed in the main room of the lodge and applauded presentations. Jim Bohr led off his patrol as a gag man and the Pontiacs used their patrol to give a preview of the 1937 World Series baseball game. Orville Marquardt, Ronald Fillnow, Ray F. Fillnow, Art Drumm, James Beer, Melvin Zuhse, Walter Speckhard and Harold Mack took part in the presentation, which included the use of a blanket, gettendown room and flashlight to show how Bill Lee of the Cubs would put the ball over the plate for the last three batters in the ninth inning.

Crowd in Uproar

The curious, drops and boaters kept the crowd in an uproar and the climax was the famous sack ball. The sack drive was put on by the Cherry patrol, headed by Howard Thompson.

Thompson acted as the editor and his reporters were Edwin Jackson, James Bree, Ray Grant and Leo Polshak. None of the news was hot until Ray rushed in with an amusing account of a bank explosion.

Hal Olk and Bill Stueg put on a demonstration as Professor Crank Brain, a scientist, and his assistant, Professor Olk used all types of instruments and the sun to determine the correct time. When his assistant asked how the time was determined, when the sun was at its highest, the professor said he merely referred to his watch.

Mock Radio Broadcast

Owen Brown acted the part of Major Benedict and with his broadcast included interviews and truth and lies by Sam Atcherson.

and Henry Asche. The Chief Shabadock patrol, with Phil Bowers in charge, put on a spelling bee with Tom Rogers, Dean Arndt, Junior Pfeiler, Wilbur Wiesman, Bill Bertram, Norman Draener, Bob Lacy, Burton Mayne and Pete Hoffman as the spellers. Bowers' from-home solo was then halted, but the clamor for an encore was so insistent that Phil had to play several more tunes.

George Meyer turned up in a tight-fitting silk dress to be interviewed by Ray Thomas, the I-hope, I-hope, I-hope salesman. This brought a howl from the crowd, which was entertained by the salesman's efforts to sell silk hose. It was reported some of the campers were so fooled by George as Miss Smith that they tried to get dates after the program.

Dick Marx and Don Rosenberg offered a piano duet and the program ended with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Don't Give Up if Your Original Plan Is Wrong

BY ELY CULBERTSON

The aftermath of every "stolen" game, games that have been made through faulty defense, usually is a heart rending wail by one of the defenders, something on this order: "But partner, I didn't dream you held the king of spades! This is a contract's latest ally. O, it probably was true enough that the wailer had every reason to believe that the key card in question was in declarer's hand. But the point is that it was not a case for dreaming out loud exploration. I refer, of course, to those situations in which the failure to play partner for a certain card is tantamount to "giving up" such a hand as the following:

North, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ K 9 5 4
♥ A 10 8
♦ 10 9
♣ A J 9 4
WEST
♠ Q 7 2
♥ Q 6 3
♦ Q 8 5 3
SOUTH
♠ A 8 6
♥ J 7 5
♦ K 6 4
♣ K 10 8 2

The bidding:
North East South West
1 club Pass 2 no trump Pass
3 no trump Pass 4 no trump Pass

South's two no trump was a stretch. His good club fit did not compensate for his shortage of half an honor trick. South should have responded with a mere "two clubs." If North were unable to rebid over this, game would be remote.

West opened his fourth best diamond. East, instead of playing his ace by rule of thumb, made the correct play of the jack. East reasoned logically that, in the bidding, West must be decidedly shy of side entries, whereas East himself had a heart stopper and possible stoppers in clubs and spades. If West's diamond suit were five long, declarer had three and those were, in all probability, headed by at least the king. To play the ace on the first round would give declarer the chance to hold up the king until the third round and, subsequently, take all the finesses into East, thereby effectively shutting West out with his long diamonds.

The jack play forced declarer to accept his king at once, since he could not tell but that a diamond continuation would trap his only stopper under a possible ace in the West hand. After winning the diamond king, declarer guessed the position of the club queen and ran off four clubs. On the third round West had the inspiration to discard a heart. East noted this and offered thanks that his partner was keeping the diamond suit intact. On the fourth round, which came from dummy, East signaled with the nine of hearts to advise West that he need not worry about that suit. West dutifully discarded another heart but, when declarer followed his club plays by leading three rounds of spades, West, on lead with the queen, proceeded to disgrace himself.

At this point a novice could have counted that to give declarer the lead would be conceding four club tricks, one diamond, one heart, and three spades, the dreaded total of nine. Too true, as West himself wailed, "he had no idea that East held the diamond ace." He had placed that card with declarer from the very first.

But, as I said in my preamble, the point was that the contract could not be defeated unless East had that elusive diamond ace. Hence, any play other than a diamond on West's part was a give-up. For West to have had the heart queen, as he actually did after winning the spade queen, was highly unforlunous surrender.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question: I opened the bidding with one diamond on the following:
♠ A Q 8 6 5 4 3 ♦ A J 9 7 5 4 ♣ Q 9. Partner responded with one heart. Should I rebid the diamonds before showing the spade suit?

Answer: No. Your correct rebid is one spade.

First Aid Kit Should Always be Kept on Hand

BY ANGELO PATRI

The good weather lets the children out of doors and at once, like young animals released after confinement, they run about heedlessly, skin their knees, cut their heads, even break a collarbone. No country boy feels that he has done his duty by his state if he is without a first aid kit.

This is all very hard on the mothers, who have to run at the call of distress and minister to the injured ones until the doctor arrives. If there is a closet shelf, or a locked cabinet, with a supply of simple and necessary aids to the needy a load of worry is lifted immediately.

The first aid shelf ought to hold only simple home remedies. I think that poisonous drugs ought to be left for the doctor's prescription. For scratches some simple antiseptic. For cuts one of the packages of sterile bandages that come ready to set in place, adhesive, sterile bandage, all in one. A bottle of that simple and effective cure for burns, lime water and linseed oil in emulsion, always ready and a pile of soft old linen, sterilized and packaged beside it, is indispensable. Do remember not to lay absorbent cotton on a bad burn. Pour on the emulsion and cover with a sterile linen bandage, or a sterile gauze bandage.

Have a cake of clean castile soap, or any good bland soap at hand, ready to take out of the paper. Soap can be dirty in itself so this packaged bit is a good precaution.

Keep a box of bicarbonate of soda on the shelf. Use it to bathe mosquito bites, for slight burns, for galling, for slight indigestion, for the many uses that mothers find for it. It is safe and effective.

Keep a clean piece of brown soap on hand for use in case of exposure to poison ivy. When children start for an outing in the country and there is the least suspicion that they may be affected by poison ivy, dip the brown soap in hot water to soften it, rub it on the exposed parts of the body, arms and legs, face and neck. Let the paste dry. Be careful not to put it on too thick. This will prevent a case of poisoning if it is left in place. After the outing wash with warm water and rinse clean. Of all the cures and preventives for this trouble we have found brown soap the best.

This shelf for first aid need not be under lock and key, an advantage when one is in a hurry to use its contents. Keys are lost or misplaced and in the excitement of an accident, hard to get at. Keep these perfectly harmless aids within reach and they will more than repay the trouble they cost to put them there.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

A HOUSE RUN BY A MARRIED COUPLE

Dear Mr. Post: We have a man and wife to go to work in our house. The wife cooks and together with her husband takes care of the general housework. He wants on table and works in the flower garden certain days and is called upon occasionally to drive the car. I have asked the husband to answer the front door on the days that he is not in the garden and he has replied: "His wife told me that he is not in the house and he is doing housework." His description of it is not good. I am a bit suspicious at this point. I wonder the wife, who is a very nice person, is making an unfair statement and if you do, will you please let me know. # Double Chin Is Regarded Mark of Age

BY ELSIE PIERCE

WE cannot conclude our series on exercising for reducing without some spot exercises aimed at the so-called dowager hump. It is that familiar hump at the back of the neck, between the shoulder blades that for some reason or other was formerly associated with dowagers. One doesn't necessarily have to be a dowager to have it. In fact, modern dowagers don't.

It is unsightly, it gives one a heavy-set, middle-aged look, quite as aging in fact as the dreaded double chin.

One of the simplest exercises for this condition is the neck bending exercise which is just as effective in breaking down fatty tissues under the chin.

Slowly bend the head forward until the chin rests as far down on the chest as possible. Then slowly bring head back until it rests as far back and down between the shoulder blades as possible. Feel the pull and tensing of the muscles as you do this exercise. This exercise may be done while standing, sitting or in a lying down position. Lie flat on back with head free over the edge of the bed and try the exercise; remember the stretching. This brings the blood to the "spot" that dowager hump—and it is the healthy circulation that normalizes matters.

Double Chin
A double chin is dreaded because it is generally regarded as a mark of age. Yet ever so many young girls have two and three chins. Excess weight is one reason. Poor posture another. Women whose work is sewing, reading or writing often get into the habit of forcing the chin down. This causes a bunching under the contour and if the muscles aren't kept resilient by exercise they soon become lazy and fall into the bunching habit. Sleeping on a mound of pillows has much the same effect so that if you must have a pillow try a little air cushion, a baby pillow or if you have the will get into the habit of sleeping sans pillow entirely.

We have already mentioned the head bending forward and backward exercise which is fine for reducing a double chin to single blessedness. Another exercise is rolling head in a complete circle—forward, left, back as far as possible and right. Try this about six times; relax and repeat six times.

In addition to these exercises, the dowager hump may be slapped vigorously with reducing lotion and the double chin firmed with an astringent tie-up.

My Neighbor Says—

If you have small calendula plants in your garden, take them up late in August and put in pots of rich loam. They will bloom during the winter.

Tiny pickled beets stuffed with cottage cheese make tasty garnishes for sliced cold meats. Two-inch cucumber boxes can be used the same way.

should be trained on the support. They will produce next year's flowers. Pruning of the large-flowered climbers, such as Dr. Van Fleet and Silver Moon, should be limited to the removal of the stems that produced this year's flowers, and to thinning out the oldest canes. The flower stems should be cut off an inch or two from the main stems. Climbers which bloom intermittently throughout the summer, such as New Dawn, should have only the flowers removed as they fade. Thinning of the old canes had best be postponed until a mild day in late winter.

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON

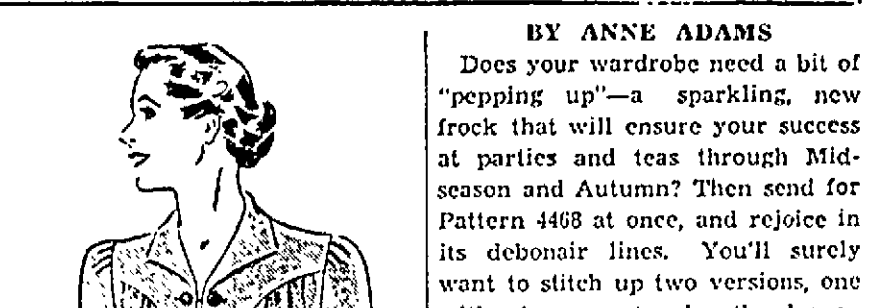

If the climbing roses have already been pruned this work should be done immediately. The small-flowered types, such as Dorothy Perkins, should have all the old canes removed. New shoots, which have come up from the base of the plant during the summer, should be trained on the support.

Husband Must Put Wife's Happiness Above His Own

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Nearly a year ago I fell in love, or thought I did, with a girl. I was not making a sufficient income to support a wife, but we felt we just couldn't stay apart so we were secretly married. To complicate matters soon after we were married I became very ill and since then have been unable to work, so she is still living with her family and I am living with mine. As time elapsed I gradually grew away from her until I no longer loved her, and I have now fallen in love, really and truly, with another girl. But my wife refuses to give me a divorce and says she is going to live with me, even though I do not love her, and she will move into my parents' home. I have no money and will not be able to work until fall. What should I do?

W. B. H.

Answer:
You will need considerably more backbone than you seem to possess if you escape a secret bride who is determined to have you, whether or no. Evidently she is one of the women who thinks a husband is a husband, no matter how undesirable he might seem to the casual eye, and she is going to hold on to the one she has got, untroubled by the trifling fact that he doesn't love her and doesn't want her.

So there you are and, believe me, you are in a hot spot. The only way you can get out of it is to scrape up enough money to go to some place where you can get a divorce on the ground of mental cruelty, which is dealing with glit-tering generalities. I have said over and over and over again in this column, and I repeat it for your benefit, that the greatest harm that any man can do a woman is to marry her after he has ceased to love her, and especially when he has fallen in love with some other woman. Because no man who marries a woman he doesn't care for can possibly be a good husband or make her happy.

Marriage requires many sacrifices and calls for great forbearance on the part of the man. He must see the money he earns go for the support of the family instead of for his own indulgences. He must put up with feminine peculiarities and, and he cannot do this cheerfully and gladly unless he loves his wife so much that he puts her pleasures and happiness before his own.

No woman is ever put in a crueler position than the one who is an unwanted wife and who knows that her husband married her from a sense of duty, or because he had not the nerve to refuse to marry her after he was weary of her.

In your particular case the happiness of the greatest number is to be considered. If you let the marriage stand, three of you will be for their birth to subsidize enough for them to give him an intelligible order.

His blood brother at the certainty that Kay was the subject of their coarse banter. Ted stepped up to them and peremptorily tapped the shoulder of the man who had done the whispering.

"I'm giving you notice to cut out the mention of the young lady's name in this or any other public place," Ted's voice had a drawing intensity that made no effort to veil the threat beneath his words.

The man swung around, surprise and anger lighting up his mean gray eyes. They were set closely on either side of a thin nose that was

FLAME TRAIL

SYNOPSIS: Saving a desperate young man (Ted Gaynor) from setting a forest fire to get a job, Kay (Landon) gives him a place at the Lazy Nine; she knows he is decent. When her ranch house and barn burn down, Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, who wants to buy the Lazy Nine and marry Kay, invited her there. She refuses, disdaining him, but young sister Babs and Aunt Kate gladly accept. Banker Dan Steele dashes Kay's hopes of rebuilding—the insurance mortgage, Ted, waiting outside the bank, hears two punchers slurring Kay and follows them.

Chapter Nine
Lighting It Out

RUSHING in the night and down the hall, Ted Gaynor left behind him a trail of destruction. He had been drinking, and he was in a bad way. He had been drinking, and he was in a bad way. He had been drinking, and he was in a bad way.

own living. The boys have jobs if they stay here and I have good prospects of work. That and the small insurance our father left us would enable us to be independent. I have taken care of the house and the kids without any help ever since our mother died, so why couldn't I just keep on doing it? Our relatives don't like the idea of us living alone, but we wouldn't really be alone living next door to them. What do you think?

SEREPHINE.

Answer: I advise you by all means to establish your own home and be independent. Don't go to live with any of your relatives. You would be miserable with them because you would be a burden on them and they would have to be more than human not to resent the imposition. Besides, nobody really fits into anybody else's family.

Keep your home together and keep your little family together. With what the four of you can earn you can live comfortably and the responsibility that it will throw on all of you will develop you into fine men and women. Being the head of the family will steady the boys and make them go straight, as they might not do if they were living around without the comforts of their own home and without any one to love them and understand them.

You needn't be afraid of gossip. People will admire you for the brave stand you are making and there won't be a woman in the neighborhood who won't try to mother you.

himself and with a roar of rage reached for his gun. But Mike Kelly had been too quick for him. Foreseeing the inevitable outcome, he had reached across the counter, and snatched Scrap's gun from his holster in that moment of inaction when Scrap had staggered back from Ted's surprise attack.

"I'm keeping this for you," Mike Kelly announced. "Go ahead and fight it out man to man if you've got to."

"Are you ready to swear off from mentioning that young lady's name, or do you want more?" Ted faced his panting opponent whose rage for the moment had been defeated to Mike Kelly. These words swept Scrap back to the real issue at hand.

"Like hell I am!" he roared, making a lunge.

Ted deftly side-stepped and came back with a left that carried as vicious a wallop as his right had. Before Scrap had time to recover, Ted closed in with an uppercut. The next instant they were locked in a dead hold.

As the sweating fighters rocked back and forth, the quickly-gathered crowd watched with breathless interest and offered advice.

Ted tore his right free and ham-mired away at Scrap's knees. Gradually he felt Scrap's knees begin to give. He knew the moment had come. Breaking away with one mighty jerk, Ted stepped back, spotted a corner on Scrap's chin and let her in. He connected with a gut punch. Ted heard the crowd cheer as he knelt beside the writhing Scrap and gripped his right wrist. With a slow, relentless twist, he threatened to wrench the arm from its socket.

"Are you ready to leave that lady's name alone?"

Scrap gritted his teeth, then yelped with pain and rage as Ted put on pressure. "Yes, damn you! Let me go!"

Ted dropped the arm and stepped swiftly back as his victim tried to struggle to his feet, then sank back in an exhausted stupor.

"Don't forget!" Ted warned. "If it ever happens again, I won't stop short of a broken neck! Get me!"

With a nod and a "Thanks for the fair play" to Mike Kelly, Ted turned and strode out. To his relief, Kay was nowhere in sight, and disfigured by a badly set break in the bone.

"You don't say?" His eyes traveled significantly to Ted's belt, with its empty holster. "And just what's going to stop me?" He fingered his own gun and laughed disagreeably. "Reckon you need a lesson!"

"Cut that out, Scrap!" Mike Kelly's voice matched the bulldog expression that wiped out his genial grin, and proclaimed him a man who was master of his own domain.

"No pulling on an unarmed man in my joint," he declared. "You can get outside if there's going to be any of that kind of play."

Mike Sees to Fair Play

The man addressed as Scrap took his hand away from his gun with another sneering laugh, as his eye measured Ted's emaciated figure and drawn face, which still held the lines of his recent privations and despairing defeat against overwhelming odds. Then he insolently turned his head away from Ted, and addressed his companion again: "Looks like the little red-headed fella had picked herself up a kind of a scrawny new champion from somewhere."

No sooner were the words out than Ted's fist crashed under Scrap's jaw with a force that snapped his head back and made him stagger away from the bar.

The next instant he recovered the horses were waiting as he had left them.

Panting from his exertions, but with a wild sense of elation coursing through him, Ted mounted his horse again and watched the bank door for Kay's reappearance.

"He's a Snake!"

Her eyes half blinded with tears of rage and disappointment, Kay stumbled out of the bank and ran over to where Ted was waiting on the horses.

She was absorbed in her own troubles and hardly glanced at Ted, so failed to notice his new look of power and restored confidence that the fight with Scrap had given him.

He resolved not to mention his encounter, handing Kay Flicker's reins in silence.

"Hurry up and get away from here!" she gasped, seizing Flicker's reins and flinging herself into the saddle. A touch of her heel to Flicker's flank sent him ahead at a startled bound.

Without questioning her haste, Ted followed suit, and the two pounded down the main street of Red River at breakneck speed. For several minutes after they reached the range, Kay set the same pace not pulling in until she felt she had herself enough under control to speak without having her voice betray the panic that possessed her.

"The blow she had had was all the greater because she had never for a moment doubted that she would have the insurance money to rebuild. Her thoughts ran in incoherent circles, seeking a way out, but apparently there wasn't any."

No matter from what angle she looked at it, she was trapped. Without money to rebuild, how could she carry on? Even if they went without the house, the barn was the heart's blood of the ranch in winter time. And Aunt Kate and Babs couldn't go on visiting forever. Perhaps they could all get on in the two cabins, but how could she break her promise to Ted Gaynor?

"Would you rather not tell me what's happened?" Ted's voice brought her back from her desperate future plans to the present. Kay pulled in, and turned toward him.

"No, you may as well know now, as later. I can't get any of the insurance money. With a rush, the whole story poured out in answer to his unspoken sympathy."

"And somehow, I know Josh Hastings is behind it all," she ended passionately. "I wouldn't even put it past him to have burnt down the ranch to get his own way."

She stopped short, suddenly aware that she no longer had Ted's attention.

"Josh Hastings?" He echoed the name, without hearing any of the rest of her tale. "Is Josh Hastings the owner of the Flying Six? You never mentioned his name before."

"Yes," she answered breathlessly, held by his hard set look and changed expression. "What do you know about him?"

"How long has he been here?" Ted ignored her question.

"About three years. Why? Do you know him?"

"Is he a big man, with a red face and very blue eyes?"

"Didn't you see him go into the bank?"

Ted shook his head. "He must have slipped by me while I was watching a frame down by Kelly's joint." He ended a more explicit account of the use of his time during Kay's absence.

"Yes—you've described him. That's the one. Tell me what you know about him!" Kay demanded eagerly.

"I know plenty," Ted answered with grim emphasis. "I won't tell you any more now, but perhaps I will some day. He's a snake, and a damned clever one."

"I've known it all along," Kay took a long breath, "but you're the first one I've met who agrees with me on that subject. Even Dad didn't see through him, although I'm willing to bet some of the troubles that have hit us since Josh Hastings bought the Flying Six can be laid at his door. He's determined to be the biggest cattle man in Montana, and to pull that off, he's got to have our ranch added to his."

Ted suggests a plan to save the Lazy Nine for Kay, tomorrow.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Six hours and 47 minutes of new pictures:

Jeanette MacDonald in "The Pearlys" has Allan Jones instead of Nelson Eddy singing. This is a lavishly produced, beautiful, and impressive version of the operetta, suffering at the preview—and making us suffer—by its excessive length. When cut, it should please the film-operetta-lovers and MacDonald fans, and make Allan Jones a new favorite. Jeanette and Allan play Spanish and French spies, respectively, in the era of Napoleonic conquest, a period appropriately colorful for operetta. They fall in love, are separated by heart between quarrels. They're

Best "good cry" of the week was provided by "Stella Dallas," talking version of the silent hit, with Barbara Stanwyck in the famous sacrificing mother role. But more than a mere "good cry" was provided by this production, admired for its substantial artistic merits as much as for its emotional appeal. Since Louise Rainer got that academy award last year, I think Stanwyck can have it next, and Anne Shirley ought to have some sort of trinket for distinguished service in the younger generation. (Preview time: One hour, 35 minutes)

"It's Love I'm After" has three stars—or four, counting Eric Blore—in a mildly entertaining farce comedy about a couple of actors and a sweet little non-pro who falls for the matinee idol. Leslie Howard plays the ham. Bette Davis his co-star and sweetheart—sweetheart between quarrels. They're about to be married when Patric Knowles appeals to Howard's chivalry to save his sweetheart Olivia, from Howard's charm.

The picture is funniest and best in the scenes between Howard and Miss Davis, both of whom have fun playing actors. Among other items to recommend is, in this day of super-epics, the picture's brevity—a mere one hour and 16 minutes.

Parents Will Get Letter Expalining School Activity Fee

A communication to students and parents concerning the operation of the student activity fee for the coming year has been prepared, according to H. H. Hebble, principal, and will be distributed when school begins.

This will be the tenth year in which Appleton has operated this system with such a degree of success that inquiries have been received from over 100 schools in 15 states as to the plan's particulars.

The plan's essential feature is the student contribution of a small weekly sum, for a period of 25 weeks, for which he receives admission to athletic contests, debates, speech contests, a year's subscription to the Tall-man, weekly newspaper, and a subscription to the Clarion, Appleton High's yearbook. If the student were to attend all events to which the fee admits him, a saving of approximately $10.00 is made. Each activity is given a percentage of the student collection in accordance with its needs.

Sportsman's License Blanks Received Here

Application blanks for voluntary sportsman's license have been received at the office of John E. Hantschel, Outagamie county clerk. The fee is $5 and the license permits fishing, trapping, hunting and deer hunting in season. The licenses are being issued by the Wisconsin Conservation department to raise funds for conservation work.

Early Treatment Is Recommended For 'Cross Eyes'

Neglect May Result in Permanent Visual Handicap, Doctors Warn

Madison—A child will not outgrow "cross-eyes," the state medical society declared in its weekly health bulletin today.

The most common cause of cross-eye is a hereditary tendency that is handed down from one generation to another. In other cases there is an obstruction or an interference with the ability of the brain to combine the two separate recordings of the eyes. When the eyes are normal each eye registers on the brain a separate impression. These impressions are fused by the brain into one picture. In the event that the eyes are "crossed," the brain automatically selects one or the other of the impressions sent to it by the eyes. If the brain did not make this selection the cross-eyed person would see two separate pictures.

If the eyes are not corrected the muscles and the nerves associated with the turned-in eye deteriorate and eventually become useless. The child is not using the eye that turns in, it is not being used to see with, and as a result the vision declines. The near vision is not in the eye itself, but in that part of the brain with which we really see. The real understanding or the actual vision of what we look at takes place in a particular part of the outer surface of the brain. When the eye crosses the brain is so confused by seeing double that his brain unconsciously or subconsciously shuts off the vision of that part of the brain that sees for that

Mare Disapproves of This New Post Office

Capitol, Calif. — When the government built a new post-office it reckoned without Fanny, a 22-year-old mare, which for 17 years has hauled the mail from the railroad station.

Jack Nicol, her driver, has been unable to train the aged horse to go to the new postoffice a block away.

eye which is turned in. When that part of the brain which is associated with the turned-in eye is not being stimulated or used, that part of the brain does not develop.

It is painful that there are so many children starting on life's journey with such a serious physical, mental and psychological handicap. It is estimated that 70 per cent of a body activity is controlled by use of our eyes. It is certain that more than 70 per cent of us look at an individual's eyes when we are trying to determine his character, to interpret his expression or to judge his words. Most of a child's learning comes through his eyes and a large part of the impressions on his mind upon others depends upon how well he is able to use his eyes to control his motions and expressions.

There are five general means for the correction of cross-eye: (1) Careful test and measurement of the eyes under "diplopia." This permits an accurate diagnosis of the eye defect. (2) Accurate measurement of the eyes and proper fitting of corrective glasses. (3) Stimulation and development of the crossed eye. (4) Teaching the child to use his two eyes together in a normal fashion. (5) Surgical operation.

"A child does not outgrow cross-eye. If the condition is allowed to progress untreated there is great danger of a permanent visual handicap. If the child appears to have crossed eyes, treatment should be instituted as early as six months after birth."

Selective Cutting Secret of Profits In Farm Logging

Cut Only Mature Trees for Lumber to Harvest Full Value

One reason why foresters encourage the growing of trees as a farm crop is that the farmer is in a better position than the large timberland owner to harvest the crop when it will be worth the most, according to a bulletin received by R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent from United States Department of Agriculture.

Many farmers, however, do not get full value from their woodlands, the bulletin states. "Selective cutting" is one of the secrets of profitable logging on the farm.

R. D. Garver reports actual experience in cutting a mixed stand of sugar maple trees, some moderately young, less than a foot in diameter, others ranging older to mature trees more than 2 feet in diameter. The larger trees will include so much more lumber of higher grade that the average value of the cut will be about twice as much a thousand feet, and the larger trees will yield from 15 to 20 times as much sawed timber as the smaller.

To harvest full value then, the farmer should cut only the mature trees for lumber, leaving the smaller trees to grow until they are mature. This is practical logging in most farm woods. Selective cutting makes possible the removal of the greatest value with the least volume, and the sale at frequent intervals of the part of the crop that has just ripened to the point where it is most valuable.

White Suits Lead Sales of Tropical Clothing for Men

A marked increase of this summer's sales over last in palm beach, tropical worsteds and gabardine suits was reported yesterday by Appleton merchants, with a forecast that prices of these materials will advance by next summer.

Contrary to conditions in some metropolitan areas, where sales of dark summer fabrics were of so great a volume that few stores have complete size ranges left, local merchants reported that sales of white garments were far ahead of the darker shades, although a better than normal demand for these dark shades was reported.

There was no intention, it was said, of following the example of some large department stores of cutting down the purchases of next year's spring wool suits to add to the budgets for tropicals and gabardines. As in the larger cities, most of the sales were reported in the price range from $15 to $25.

A. L. Teams Begin To Feel Yawkey's Investment in Sox

Boston Clips First Division Contenders; Meets Yanks Next Week

BY SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer
HAT big money that Tom Yawkey threw into the Boston Red Sox is talking again. In fact, it's shouting so loud it's making nervous wrecks of a lot of American league strong-arm squads.

How long it can continue remains to be seen, but if past performances are any indication, the Sox will keep on surging until their series next week with the New York Yankee slaughterers, who are now coasting along on an eight-game lead.

Until then, however, Yawkey's three-million dollar investment is going to keep on doing a lot of damage among the league's stronger contenders. Headed by a clouting comeback in second-baseman Doc McNamee and a lot of flunking ability full in the arm and left arm of Bob Grove, the Gold Sox—last year they were the gold floss—haven't been beaten in nine starts.

McNamee, snapping out of his moribund crouch-puff hitting doldrums, has been belting the ball for a .465 average in the present drive. Jimmy Fenn and Pinky Higgins are moving along at .382 and .359, respectively. The three of them have driven in 29 runs in the surge.

Grove is breezing along on a personal three-game winning streak. A cing this quartet are a couple of rookies, outfielder Colonel G. Mills and Catcher Gene DeSaules, who are paying first-year dividends with .357 averages for the current surge.

Boston made it three straight over Cleveland yesterday with a doubleheader win, 8-6 and 6-5, as Fenn belted homers Nos. 27 and 28. This twin win left Boston just a game back of the second-place Chicago White Sox, who learned first-hand again from the homer specialists, the Yanks, that there's no comeback for a circuit club. Bill Dickey belted one with the bases loaded and Lou Gehrig hammered the 23rd before a single by Jake Powell in the ninth broke up the game and gave the Yanks a 10-9 win, their third straight over the bleeding Sox.

The New York Giants cut their National league deficit to six games back of the Chicago Cubs by losing out Cincinnati, 4-3. The Cubs lost a 2-1 heartbreaker to Lefty LaMotte and the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Brooklyn Dodgers pummeled the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-7. The St. Louis Cardinals put on a ninth-inning five-run rally to top the Boston Bees, 7-6. The Detroit Tigers walloped the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-7, and the St. Louis Browns beat the Washington Senators, 5-3.

Garden Powers Concede Mike Jacobs Full Control of Big-Time Boxing

BY DREW MIDDLETON

New York—(AP)—The varied destinies of the cauliflower industry passed today from the grip of Madison Square Garden which had held them since the reign of Tex Rickard, to Mike Jacobs, the man who parlayed a Brown Bomber and a punch into the dictatorship of the fight game.

Jacobs, in leasing for two seasons the Garden and its outdoor arena, the big bowl in Long Island city, assumed Rickard's old past as the fight game's No. 1 promoter.

He plans indoor boxing shows for the Garden this winter and next and outdoor fights at the bowl in 1938 and 1939.

Jacobs, a ticket-broker, learned the devious business methods of the fight game as Rickard's partner in the halcyon days of the million dollar gates and the 600 millionaires. When Rickard died Jacobs went back to a booming brokerage business and others tried to fill Rickard's shoes.

One of them was Jimmy Johnston, who, as matchmaker for the Garden, is now a man without a job. Many believe Johnston, an astute promoter in his own right, will join Jacobs.

The shift in power from the Garden to Jacobs shows once more that the man who controls the heavy-weight title, by far the richest in the industry, controls big time boxing. Jacobs picked up Louis when the Bomber was almost unknown and brought him east for his first big fight against Primo Carnera. Since then he has sent the champion against Baer, Schmeling, Braddock and others. With the exception of the Schmeling bout, Mike's meat ticket has been a war. Always Louis has made money.

When Louis won the title from Braddock, Jacobs preferred on the sock market hit the top and he was ready to bargain with Colonel John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden corporation.

He now has the use of the Garden and the Hippodrome, where he staged shows last winter through his 20th Century Sporting club. Outdoors he has the Yankee stadium, the Polo grounds and the Garden Bowl, the three largest outdoor arenas in New York.

Col. Kilpatrick gave business as the reason for the leasing of the Garden.

"It means more money for us," said the colonel.

Lutz Coolersators in Win Over All-Stars

Although outbid by their opponents, the Lutz Coolersators defeated the Fourth Ward Rams at the McKinley School grounds Wednesday, 8 to 5. The Coolersators virtually ended the game by scoring six times in the first inning, adding their final two runs in the seventh. The Rams counted twice in the fourth and three times in the fifth. Black pitched for the Coolersators, striking out five and giving six bases on balls. Van Steffen, on the mound for the Rams, struck out two and walked one. Recker of the Rams connected for the only home run of the game. Childs and Hein hit the Coolersator attack. Hein hitting a triple and double. Werner was the only Ram to hit safely twice. Morgan started in the field for the Rams.

Wisconsin Coast Guard Wins at Aquatic Meet

Grand Haven, Mich. —(P)— Coast guard crews from Wisconsin, the eleventh district of the service, took three major events in contests yesterday which were features of the coast guard anniversary aquatic festival here. They won the one-mile capsize race, the surfboat pulling contest and set what coast guardmen said was an all-time record by completing a beach rescue in three minutes, two seconds.

A Holland, Mich., crew won the picket boat race.

U. S. Practically Assured Cup Win

See Just Another Triumph Today for the United States' Defender

BY TOM HORGAN
Newport, R. I. —(P)—It's the practically unanimous idea around Newport today that the America's cup races of 1937 may as well be written into the record books now as another triumph for the United States' defender.

Endeavour II, seventh challenger from over the sea, faced the fourth and possibly final duel with Harold S. Vanderbilt's thrice-victorious Ranger with no one willing to wager a Chinese copper that T. O. M. Sopwith's blue sloop could take the four straight victories now necessary to win.

Even those who thought Sopwith might win today confessed their belief was predicated more upon sympathy with the gallant Englishman than upon faith in Endeavour's ability to outfoot the fleet Ranger over the 30-mile triangular course laid out for today's test.

Endeavour II's performance in yesterday's third race, lost by 4 minutes, 27 seconds, was a distinct improvement over the 17 and 18 minute trouncings in the first two sailing duels, but not sufficient to raise British hopes.

Even Sopwith virtually conceded as hopeless his second quest of the elusive trophy, saying, simply, "Ranger is a faster boat."

A.L. Teams Begin To Feel Yawkey's Investment in Sox

Boston Clips First Division Contenders; Meets Yanks Next Week

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
HAT big money that Tom Yawkey threw into the Boston Red Sox is talking again. In fact, it's shouting so loud it's making nervous wrecks of a lot of American league strong-arm batters.

How long it can continue remains to be seen, but if past performances are any indication, the Sox will keep on surging until their series next week with the New York Yankees slayers, who are now counting along on an eight-game lead.

Until then, however, Yawkey's three-million dollar investment is going to keep on doing a lot of damage among the loop's stronger contenders. Headed by a clouting townie in second-baseman Doc Cramer and a lot of flinging ability in the aging but agile left arm of B. B. Grove, the Gold Sox—last year they were the gold flops—haven't been beaten in nine starts.

Meanwhile, snapping out of his long-term cream-puff hitting doldrums, he's been belting the ball for .466 average in the present drive. Jimmy Foxx and Pinky Higgins are moving along at .382 and .359, respectively. The three of them have driven in 29 runs in the surge.

Grove is breezing along on a personal three-game winning streak. Making this quartet are a couple of rookies, outfielder Colonel G. Miley and Catcher Gene DeSauteles, who are paying first-year dividends with .287 averages for the current campaign.

Boston made it three straight over Cleveland yesterday with a 6-0 blowout win, 8-6 and 6-5, as Yawkey's twin left Boston just a game back of the second-place Chicago White Sox, who learned first-hand again from the homer specialist, the Yanks, that there's no shortcut for a circuit club. Bill Dickey belted one with the bases loaded and Lou Gehrig hammered his 23rd before a single by Jake Powell in the ninth broke up the game and gave the Yanks a 10-9 win, their third straight over the slumping Sox.

The New York Giants cut their National league deficit to six games back of the Chicago Cubs by nosing out Cincinnati, 4-3. The Cubs lost a .41 heartbreaker to Lefty Brierley and the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3.

The Brooklyn Dodgers pummeled the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-7. The St. Louis Cardinals put on a ninth-inning five-run rally to top the Boston Bees, 7-6. The Detroit Tigers defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-7, and the St. Louis Browns beat the Washington Senators, 5-3.

Minneapolis Glad to See Columbus' Twin Suggests Leave City

Minneapolis—Minneapolis fans won't forget in a hurry that last week this season at Columbus' slugging twins, Enos Slaughter and John Rizzo. Slaughter and John celebrated their 100th anniversary of the campaign by a 4-0 victory over the Red Sox yesterday. Slaughter hit four hits apiece, the first time in a 5-0 victory which put the Red Sox back on top in the American association. Slaughter belted out a home run, triple, and a pair of singles, while Rizzo belted a triple and three one-runners.

Slaughter scored two runs in backing up a sparkling five-hit pitching performance by Righthander John Rizzo.

The victory gave the Birds a half-point edge over the Millers in the five-team race.

Garden Powers Concede Mike Jacobs Full Control of Big-Time Boxing

BY DREW MIDDLETON

New York—The varied destinies of the cauliflower industry passed today from the grip of Madison Square Garden which had held them since the reign of Tex Rickard, to Mike Jacobs, the man who parlayed a Brown Bomber and a punch into the dictatorship of the fight game.

Jacobs, in leasing for two seasons the Garden and its outdoor arena, the big bowl in Long Island city, assumed Rickard's old past as the fight game's No. 1 promoter.

Kobals Nose Out All-Stars 5 to 4

Rollie Choudoir Is Fielding Star With Eight Put-outs for Winners

Kobals' Tavern defeated the Fourth Ward All-Star 5 to 4 last night at the First ward diamond. Kloe, on the mound for the winners, allowed seven hits, struck out one man and walked one. Swamp gave up nine hits, fanned five and yielded one base on balls.

Kobals scored two runs in the second to lead 2 to 1 and added another run in the fourth. The All-Stars counted three tallies in the fifth but fell behind when the Taverns shoved in two more runs in the fifth frame.

Rollie Choudoir, Kobal's center-fielder, had eight putouts and made some spectacular catches to take the game's fielding honors. A double play Calmes to Elias also featured the Kobal play. Zimmerman and Elias were the batting stars with two hits apiece in three trips to the plate. Both of Zimmerman's hits were doubles. Swamp had two hits in three trips for the losers.

The All-Stars will meet Kemke Taverns of Kaukauna in a game at Interlake park this evening.

U.S. Practically Assured Cup Win

See Just Another Triumph Today for the United States' Defender

BY TOM HORGAN
Newport, R. I.—It's the practically unanimous idea around Newport today that the America's cup races of 1937 may as well be written into the record books now as another triumph for the United States' defender.

Endeavour II, seventh challenger from over the sea, faced the fourth and possibly final duel with Harold S. Vanderbilt's thrice-victorious Ranger with no one willing to wager a Chinese copper that T. O. M. Sopwith's blue sloop could take the four straight victories now necessary to win.

Even those who thought Sopwith might win today confessed their belief was predicated more upon sympathy with the gallant Englishman than upon faith in Endeavour's ability to outfoot the fleet Ranger over the 30-mile triangular course laid out for today's test.

Endeavour II's performance in yesterday's third race, lost by 4 minutes, 27 seconds, was a distinct improvement over the 17 and 18 minute trouncings in the first two sailing duels, but not sufficient to raise British hopes.

Even Sopwith virtually conceded as hopeless his second quest of the elusive trophy, saying, simply, "Ranger is a faster boat."

Pegler Suggests Green Do a Little Delousing

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—William Green of the American Federation of Labor recently shed a tear for me as one who had been voted into the C. I. O. by the national convention of the newspaper guild. That was indeed kind of Mr. Green and I really didn't know he cared, but he can dry his eyes because I can handle this myself.

I don't want to go into that subject just now and the purpose of this is not to discuss the unionization of the newspaper business but just generally the type of union that Mr. Green's organization offers everybody. His type of union presumes to sell licenses to work and to collect income and tax on the members' earnings. And for these reasons and some others is just as bad as the C. I. O. with its mobile mobs.

I am paying two income taxes now, federal and state, and while I have much more fault to find with the capricious and vindictive actions of the internal revenue department against persons who exercise their constitutional right to oppose the administration or criticize the catchpools, a man at least can have his day in court with them.

Moreover, unless he goes to Alcatraz for lese majeste, he still has a right to earn a living, if he can find a job. Mr. Green's type of labor unions, on the other hand, have a habit of restricting jobs by limiting the number of union members and apprentices and I know of one union, the news-reel photographers' which demands and gets an initiation fee of $1,000, which I believe is tops in tribute.

High Initiation Fees Are Not Uncommon

In unions of this type, and there are many of them, an initiation fee of $250 is not uncommon and I would say off-hand that this is a hell of a way to spread employment and get the idle back to work. And, of course, in addition to the initiation fee by which a nominally free American buys an unofficial and irresponsible government within the public government the right to earn a living, there are dues, based on wages, and assessments and fines.

If a man can't or will not pay the initiation fee to the union controlling his line of work, he can't have a job even though some employer would be glad to hire him, and if he does pay and then goes obnoxious about union politics or finances he runs the risk of being tossed out and blacklisted.

Initiation fees, dues, assessments and fines lump up to very sturdy totals and have attracted the professional interest of many labor politicians who run their unions the same way that ward bosses run party politics.

And the rank and file often are afraid to say yes or no about union business affecting their jobs, their earnings and the welfare of their families. There are not many individuals who have the courage to stand up in meeting and quarrel with professionals who know the tricks of intimidation, and an issue involving the human rights of an honest working stiff may be decided the wrong way by nothing more than parliamentary or legal than an invitation to step out in the hall and get his ears punched off.

Wary Of Government Control Of Unions

I am very wary of government control of unions because that is the way of fascism and nazism, but I insist nevertheless that some way must be found to guarantee an open chance for a man to work without having to buy a license, to abolish the artificial restrictions on opportunity established by some labor unions, to curb the rapacity of labor politicians and to compel a square accounting and an honest disposition of the money that is collected. We do have our laws relating to conspiracy and embezzlement but they have been generally ineffective in this field and the intimidation clause of the Wagner act covering coercive actions by the boss is not interpreted to protect a workman from intimidation by a union or even by a known racketeer engaged in union exploitation.

The practice of assigning men from union headquarters to work on approved jobs may be all right

'GOOD JOKE ON ME'

Hinton, W. V. — Here is one bridegroom who was jilted but didn't take it seriously.

County Clerk Harold Price said a Pipestem resident returned an unused marriage license with this note:

"I am returning the license. Not married. She has got one good joke on me."

In theory, pretending to allot the work on an impartial basis but a group of tough leaders can fumble the list and give it all to their friends or exact a kickback while a square guy shines apples on a corner.

These are a few little imperfections which sometimes appear in Mr. Green's type of union, and I hope he won't be hurt with me for proposing that he quit kidding the public and do a little delousing and sweeping.

'What Do You Hear of Detroit?' Group Asks

Admitting it to be a strange request, the Greater Detroit association forwarded a letter to Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, asking "What do you hear about Detroit these days in your city?" and "Are opinions and remarks you hear about Detroit favorable or harmful—what is stressed most?"

Detroit and Michigan recently emerged from a series of labor difficulties and exaggerated and distorted stories were printed and spread over the country, the communication reads. The association has been formed to correct erroneous and harmful impressions.

"Detroit's business and manufacturing are now booming above 1929 peaks in most cases. Our population has increased more than 60,000 in six months. We're proud to proclaim our well-merited title—"Detroit the Dynamic," the letter reads.

has decided to post the road with signs showing the exact mileage. The peak is about 15 miles from the city.

In the clear, brilliant sunshine of mile-high altitude, the peak sometimes appears to be only two or three miles from town.

The WORLD OF STAMPS

BY JAMES B. HATCHER
The design for the Virginia Dare stamp—suggested by President Roosevelt—shows the long lost infant in the arms of her mother 'Elinor White Dare', who is seated before their log cabin, partly visible in the background. Ananias Dare, the little girl's father, stands just behind his wife, holding a musket. A spinning wheel, plow and bowl of vegetables are details of the scene.

At the left of the central oval, "US Postage" will be arranged vertically in white Gothic, the first two letters forming a monogram.

At the right, similarly arranged, will be "5 Cents." Across the bottom of the stamp in two lines will run the inscription: "In Memory of Virginia Dare. Born Roanoke 1587." in dark lettering.

This 5-cent stamp, which will be light blue and one inch square, will first go on sale August 18 at Manasco, Roanoke Island, N. C.

All 39 signers of the Constitution will be portrayed on the stamp which will commemorate the 150th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution. It will be a 3-cent purple of the same size as the Northwest Territory stamp, and will be issued September 17, the date of the adoption, probably at Philadelphia.

The central design will be a reproduction of the famous painting by Junius Brutus Stearns, "The Adoption of the Constitution of the New Nation." It shows the meeting of the Federal convention of 1787 in Independence hall, Philadelphia.

The standing figure of Washington, holding a document, forms the center of interest. Benjamin Franklin can be easily recognized as one of the seated figures at the left. Stearns painted this picture in 1850, but it really took him several years to do the necessary research for he was primarily a portrait painter and faced the task of bringing to life the features of 39 men no longer living. The 39 are:

Geo. Washington, president and deputy from Virginia; Delaware—Geo. Read, Gunning Bedford, jun., John Dickinson, Richard Basset, Jacob Broom, New Hampshire; John Langdon, Nicholas Gilman; Massachusetts—Nathaniel Gorham, Rufus King; Maryland—James McHenry, Dan of St. Thos. Jennifer, Danl. Carroll; Connecticut—Wm. Saml. Johnson, Roger Sherman; Virginia—John Blair, James Madison, Jr.; New York—Alexander Hamilton; North Carolina—Wm. Blount, Richard Dobbs Spaight, Hu. Williamson; New Jersey—Wil. Livingston, David Brearley, Wm. Paterson, Jona. Dayton; South Carolina—J. Rutledge, Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, Charles Pinckney, Pierce Butler; Pennsylvania—B. Franklin, Thomas Mifflin, Robt. Morris, Geo. Clymer, Thos. Fitz Simons, Jared Ingersoll, James Wilson, Gov. Morris; Georgia—William Few, Abr. Baldwin.

The picture is said to belong to a New York art collector.

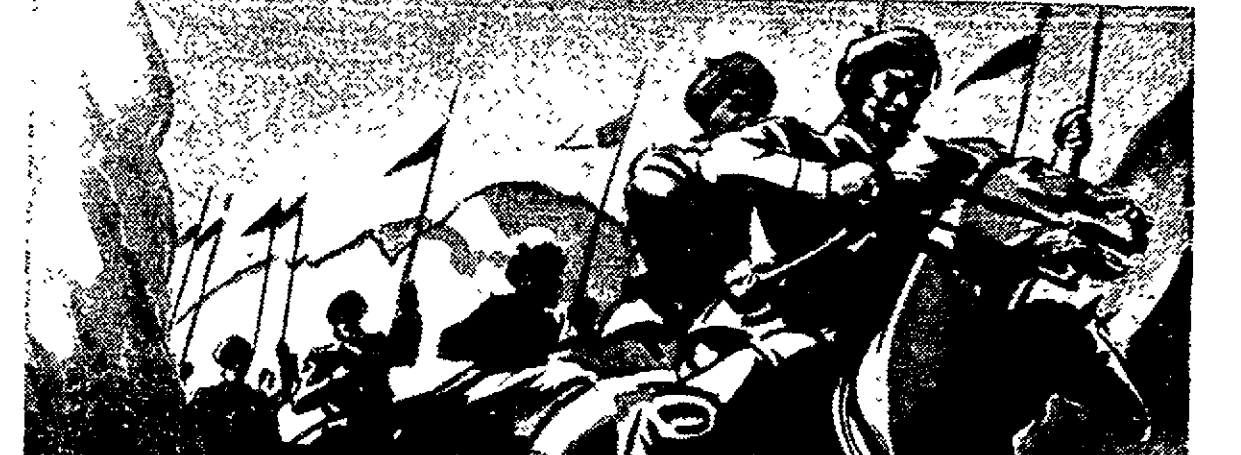

Stearns (1810-35) was born in Vermont and died in New York where he did much of his historical and portrait painting. He was an associate of the National Academy of Design. His five paintings representing George Washington as a citizen, farmer, soldier, statesman and Christian are considered his best.

Sox in Tie for First Place in Baseball League

Defeat Mitchler's Tigers. 11 to 5, on Library Grounds

Kaukauna—Nick Steffen's Sox, who didn't win a game in the first half of the summer in the junior softball league, went into a tie for first place in the hardball league of the second part of the summer sports program at the library grounds by defeating Billy Mitchler's Tigers 11-5 yesterday. Don Reichel's Cubs put themselves in the tie for first by ousting Junior Egan's Pirates from the top, 18-5, in the other game of yesterday's double header.

Standings in the league at the end of the first half leave Steffen and Reichel tied for first with four wins and two losses each. Junior Egan is in third place with three and three, and Billy Mitchler has one win and five losses.

Mickey Walsh pitched and Jim McLaughlin caught for the winning Sox yesterday, while Shrimp Derus and Jerry Beten formed the battery for the Tigers. In the other game Reichel pitched his team to victory and Leroy Peters caught, while Butch Belongue and Owen Killo, Jr., were the battery for the Pirates.

The play-off for the championship of the first round of the hardball league will be held Monday morning.

An all-star game for players in the junior league will be on the program tomorrow morning. Two teams consisting of players from all squads in the league will be picked to battle for the all-star victory.

Cheese Jars Sometimes Come Back With Pickles

Kaukauna—People do not return many of the stone jars that process cheese is packed in, but when they do, they sometimes forget about the pickles, minced meat, or candy they have put in the jars, Earl Mollet, employee of the Kaukauna dairy which manufactures a process cheese, said as he addressed the Kaukauna Rotary club yesterday at their meeting in the Hotel Kaukauna.

"Only two per cent of the stone jars are ever returned," he said. "But once we get one back full of mince meat, another full of salted fish, and some with pickles or candy in them."

"It seems that people get the jars confused in their homes and return the wrong ones. When they do, the boys at the plant have a little treat."

Talking about the early days in the manufacture of the product, Mollet said that the first cheese that Hubert Fassbender, its originator, had mixed up for a tavern, was put in a stone jar. "Since then we've always packed it in stone. At first we had difficulty getting enough jars from a nearby wholesaler, but now we get them from a stoneware company."

Boys Again Lead In Attendance at Swimming Holes

Kaukauna—Boys won back their position as the stronger and more athletic sex as they surpassed girls in the number who went swimming during the month of July, after the girls had shown the greater enthusiasm for aquatic sports during June, according to the monthly report on swimmers at the city pool and the Fourth lock.

A total of 17,727 swimmers cooled themselves in the waters of the pool and the Fox during July, to set a mark more than tripling the number for June. Boys had 8,884 swimmers in both places and girls, 5,702.

Girls had the edge at the swimming pool with 2,100 of them swimming there, while only 1,645 boys used the pool waters. Men in attendance evenings numbered 60 women, 83. At the Fourth lock boys totaled 8,239; girls, 5,602. Total swimmers at the pool were 3,886; at the lock, 13,841.

First aid was administered to 12 persons at the lock, and one person was rescued from the waste gases there.

Children taking part in the summer recreational program numbered 2,715, according to Clifford Kemp, director.

RECEIPTS DECLINE

Kaukauna—Postal receipts for July were $1,708.82, slightly lower than the same month of last year, according to the report of Postmaster Richard H. McCarty. This is also decrease from the amount of the June receipts.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT GRADE OF MOTOR OIL WILL INCREASE YOUR GASOLINE MILEAGE!

THE EFFECT OF MOTOR OIL CHOICE ON GASOLINE CONSUMPTION
CARS USING OIL OF SAME GRADE	AVERAGED THIS GASOLINE MILEAGE
10 (Light)	17.2 mi. gal.
20 (Light)	16.6 mi. gal.
30 (Medium)	16.3 mi. gal.
40 (Med. Heavy)	16.1 mi. gal.
50 (Heavy)	16.0 mi. gal.

This is a summary of records submitted by thousands of motorists, driving different makes of cars at all driving speeds, in Standard Oil's great Road Test last summer.

No gasoline you can buy gives more miles per gallon than Standard Red Crown... Thousands say "It beats them all."

THERE'S a catch in this interesting fact. Lighter oil does increase your gasoline mileage, and, if it's quality oil like Iso-Vis "D", is perfectly safe lubrication in hot weather. But it does require some additional oil between drains. The fact is, though, that the saving on gasoline more than offsets the slight extra oil cost.

If you're out to SAVE AS YOU DRIVE, that's an important fact to know. If you're trying to better your gasoline mileage, it's a vital fact to use.

The book "How to SAVE AS YOU DRIVE" is packed with facts like that—Easy things to do that can save you as much as 10% of your gasoline money!

*Never use lighter oil than the lightest grade recommended by the manufacturer of your car.

Eleven Men Tell House Members When to Vote 'No'

BY SIGRID ARNE
Washington—(AP)—Congress has acquired a Greek chorus that sings only one refrain: "I object."
They put on their act in the house on the first and third Tuesdays of every month when the private bills come up.

Suppose Mr. Jones of Arkansas wants $30 damages from Uncle Sam because the Jones cow, Bessie, was killed by a government truck. But suppose the house objectors have a suspicion all was not Hoyle about Bessie's departure. Two of the objectors can rise and shout, "I object." There is no further argument. That's that for the $30.

11 Voices in Chorus
There are 11 in the chorus—six Republicans and five Democrats. They are Representatives C. E. Hancock of New York, C. A. Halleck of Indiana, J. W. Mott of Oregon, J. P. Wolcott of Michigan, D. H. McLean of New Jersey, R. E. Church of Illinois, D. W. Clark of Idaho, J. M. Costello of California, G. A. Barden of North Carolina, Ross Collins of Mississippi and J. H. Flannery of Pennsylvania.
Their group came into being two years ago when congress was forced to step itself up to mass production methods because some 12,000 bills were hitting it each session. Some of them were major issues, like the Wagner act, but hundreds were small like the one about Mr. Jones' cow.

Legislative Goats
Obviously, a congressman doing his homework on the Wagner act has no time to study evidence on the small bills. And yet he'd like to know when he votes $30 to Mr. Jones that the sum is due Jones.

So the objectors came into being. They're the legislative goats and really must know about each bill because it's their official duty to guide the rest of the house.

Sounds reminiscent of Uncle Joe Cannon's steamroller—some of the brethren think it is.

Used to be private bills came up separately in the house for prolonged discussion. That took time.

How It Works
Now they go to house committees which do all the arguing. If the committees report them out, the objectors hunt for slips to prepare for the first and third Tuesdays of the month. The clerk reels them off like this:

"H. R. 1027 for the relief of Fannie Sarah Hopkins."

Most of the house will have no idea what Mrs. Hopkins wants but the objectors do. If they think her bill proper they keep quiet, and the bill passes automatically.

But if two objectors shout "I object," that kills the bill that day, and it goes back to committee. It can be reported out again, after changes. But this time it comes in an "omnibus bill" which includes several such second appearances.

Senate Takes House O.K.
This time all the bills in the omnibus can pass without discussion if the objectors keep quiet. Or they can object just to certain sections of the omnibus.

The result is the house will clean up 1,200 private bills in one session. They used to call it a fair to mid-dling year when they pushed through 150.

The bills still must ride through the senate. But the senate concerns itself more with national issues. When these private bills arrive from the house the senate usually presumes the house knows what it's about, and signs on the dotted line.

Faltboot Being Used in Riding American Rapids

'Folding Boat' Fad Comes To U. S. From Europe

Washington, D. C.—To bicycling, hiking, skiing, and other excursion trains add the faltboot special. More than 200 devotees of the new "folding boat" pastime recently took their collapsible craft by rail from New York City to a Connecticut river to launch a sport in American waters that has for years been popular on the swift streams of the German, Austrian, and French Alps, and in England.

"A faltboot—the German word is generally used—combines many of the features of an Eskimo kayak with those of an American Indian canoe," says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

Folds Up Into Two
Being chiefly composed of rubberized sailcloth, waterproof canvas and sticks, a faltboot can be folded up into two or three compact bundles not much larger than a golfbag and ordinary duffle bags. The boat may thus be transported easily by train or motor car from home to riverside.

"Experts, in a few minutes, can assemble this meager baggage into a long slim boat, with watertight compartments fore and aft, and a cockpit in the center which will hold one or two people."

"For an 18-foot 2-seater, one bag may hold the folded boat fabric; one the curved ribs, and a longer narrower sack the paddles and sections of lengthwise frame."

"Because the paddler or paddlers sit almost on the keel of the boat and stretch their legs forward along the ribs, a faltboot has a low center of gravity. Consequently it is not easily tipped over and can ride rapids and small falls, breast waves and shoot through sluices that would swamp ordinary rowboats or capsize canoes."

Double-Bladed Paddles

"There is no rudder. The craft is guided by swift strokes of double-bladed paddles held by the rowers. Falbooting is at its best in swift-flowing streams with sufficient water volume to prevent striking the thin bottom of the boat on sharp rocks or tree roots."

"Like automobile tires, faltboots are subject to puncture. But this means merely a ducking and a trip to shore to bail out and apply a patch. Watertight compartments prevent the frail craft from sinking. For freedom of action, and also in case of an unscheduled swim, a bathing suit or shorts is the accepted costume for the sport."

"For shooting rapids, most boats are equipped with a Spritzdeckel, or spray cover, which folds back from the front of the cockpit and is fastened around the waists of the paddlers. An inflated cushion and back pads absorb some of the shock of the bounding waves, for faltbooting in rough water is like riding a bucking broncho. In two-seater boats the advantage is with the person in the stern, because the bow paddler often has to serve as a wave-breaker as well."

Special Guidebooks

"In Europe the sport has advanced to such a stage that many rivers have been completely charted and special guidebooks issued for faltboot fans. Maps indicate not only falls and dams too high to be safely negotiated, but also the location of convenient inns, highways and railroad stations. On some rivers there are special 'canoe stations,' where paddle people may find a safe place to keep their boats, a good meal, and a comfortable bed—all at reasonable cost."

"Devotees say that after a day in a faltboot one gets a river complex. No two rivers, of course, are ever alike, and 'white water' generally has the greatest appeal. When rapids are encountered both skill and nerve are necessary to get through without a spill. Yet paddling on canals and tidal rivers also has its charms and its periods of lazy ease. The boats draw amazingly little water and can be handled almost as readily as a canoe."

"As to wild rivers in general, expert paddlers get to be like mountaineers. 'You do not climb a 14,000-foot mountain after the first

Survey Shows Boys Are Leaving Farms Because Girls Do

Ames, Ia.—(AP)—It's the girls who lead the boys away from the farm, says R. F. Wakely, Iowa State college sociologist, after making a survey of why young folks move to town and stay there.

"When rural young people get out of high school they've lost the main social contact of their lives and have nothing to take its place," Wakely says.

"Consequently, the girls who do not marry get out as quickly as they can and go to town. The boys must follow them if they expect to find wives. So the town, rather than the rural community center, west as Denver, but most from the New York area. "While we do have many society girls," says Mrs. Boardman, "we're glad to teach any girl who is aware that running a home is a great profession."

Dog Packs Attack

Flocks in Southwest

Austin, Tex.—(AP)—Dogs, for centuries the traditional protector of peaceful flocks, rank with wolves as livestock destroyers in some parts of Texas.

That's the claim of ranchers advocating a law to stop wanton slaughter of sheep, goats and even cattle by uncontrolled dogs.

They claim police dogs are the worst offenders and that the toll of livestock in one county alone was $20,000 in one year. The dogs kill for pleasure, not for food, ranchers say.

WEARS TATTOOED SMILE

Washington—(AP)—Feminine beauty varies with geography, says Malvina Hoffman, the sculptress who has studied "beauties" all over the world.

In Hokkaido, an island off north Japan, the village queen must have a tattooed smile which circles her lips and stretches to her ears. In Central Africa the Duck Bills, to be beautiful, must have huge lips. In Burma the reigning belles must have long necks encased in brass rings—the more rings, the more beauty.

Dim Lights for Safety

Adventures of Grizzly Adams

IV—TWO BABY GRIZZLIES

While near the headwaters of the Mariposa river, Grizzly Adams caught sight of the den of a California grizzly. Hoping he might capture one or more cubs, he marked the spot, and went back to his camp to get a mule.

The noise was followed by a booming in the den like the puffing and snorting of a railway locomotive in a tunnel.

The angry animal, a large female grizzly, rushed out. The man leveled his rifle and fired. The bear staggered and fell.

Dropping his gun, Adams seized his pistol in one hand and his bowie knife in the other. Rushing forward to make sure the beast was dead, he reached a point only 10 yards from her when she rose and sprang toward him. Adams then fired at her with his pistol, and getting close, struck with his knife.

The pistol shots and the thrust with the knife ended the beast's struggles. In a moment, she lay dead on the ground.

Using a torch made from pine splinters, and carrying his rifle again, Adams dropped on his knees and crawled into the den. After passing through a tunnel about six feet long, he reached a chamber which appeared to be six or eight feet wide and five feet high. Here is the story of what happened next, as he later told it:

"At first I could see no animals, but as I crawled around there was a rustling in the leaves. Bending down with my torch, I saw two beautiful little cubs, which could not have been over a week old, as their eyes were not open. I lifted them by the nape of the neck, and found them very lively."

When taken to camp, the babies were fed with milk, and became very tame.

Martin Points to Dangers in Court Packing Proposal

Justice of Wisconsin Tribunal Is Speaker at Kiwanis Session

Neenah—"Increasing the personnel of the supreme court cannot be justified on any grounds and if our courts are made subservient to the legislative and executive bodies, they will lose their independence and become political tribunals."

This statement was made by Justice Joseph Martin, a judge of the Wisconsin supreme court, in an address on the constitution of the United States before members of the Neenah Kiwanis club and guests Wednesday noon at Valley Inn.

Interpreting the constitution on the supreme court issue, Justice Martin explained, "The constitution provides for a supreme court and such other inferior courts as are necessary in the opinion of congress. It does not limit the personnel of the court as the supreme court of Wisconsin is limited. A change in the court personnel would be legal."

Restrict Government

"There are 65 fields of government in which the federal government functions and 79 restrictions are listed," Justice Martin continued. "In addition there are 13 fields covered in the constitution which no congress or state may invade. Among these restrictions are religious freedom, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, right of redress in courts and the right to hold property."

Pleading for an understanding of the constitution as written, the speaker said, "If more people understood the constitution of the United States and would apply a little common sense to its interpretation, there would never be any cries of dictatorship in this country."

Stood Test Of Time

"The constitution is the foundation stone of our government and has stood the test of time for 150 years. Most American citizens lack an understanding of the scope and meaning of the document. It is basically the supreme law of the land, made by the people and cannot be changed except with the consent of the people."

"The complete copy of the original constitution is covered in 4,000 words and with 21 amendments there are 7,000 words. It would take the average reader only 45 minutes to read the aged document from cover to cover," Justice Martin said.

The sesquicentennial celebration of the birth of the constitution will be observed all over the nation on Sept. 17. The ideas behind the document came from able and experienced men who gained their knowledge from different types of governments all over Europe, the justice said.

Relates History

Facts concerning the drawing of the constitution previous to its adoption at Philadelphia May 25, 1787, were discussed by the speaker. A total of 76 delegates were elected from 13 states to convene and draw the constitution. Only 55 attended from 12 states. A total of 116 hours were consumed in debate before the measure was passed.

When it was ready for adoption it was considered a complete system of checks and balances. It was formed so that no branch of the government could run wild without a balancing power. The constitution provides for three branches of government, the executive, the legislative and the judicial. The document as formed in 1787 provided for a limited democracy giving men power to rule only under the constitution.

Ludington to Pay Tribute Tonight to Father Marquette

Ludington, Mich.—Thirty-six drama-packed years out of the seventeenth century will be relived here tonight.

The years represent the life time of Father Jacques Marquette, foremost of that hardy band of pioneers who participated in the founding of "New France." The period forms the groundwork of Ludington's third annual Pere Marquette pageant.

Four performances, beginning tonight and ending Sunday night, will trace the career of the famous Jesuit missionary and explorer from his birth at Laon, France, to his death on the heights of Butteville, near what is now Ludington, in 1673.

This year's pageant is being given special emphasis because it coincides with the tercentenary of Father Marquette's birth.

All told, there will be 14 scenes with the Rt. Rev. Robert Nelson Spencer, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of West Missouri, acting as narrator. The 400 actors will take the parts of Indians, priests, soldiers and sailors. Eugene Christman, Mason county's prosecuting attorney, will play the role of the adult Marquette.

Health Exhibit To Be Displayed At County Fair

Panels Will Describe Cases
Histories of Four Families

What might have been the result if prizes had been awarded for the best tuberculosis fighters during the past year is described in an exhibit secured by Miss Marie Klein, Outagamie county nurse, for showing at the Seymour fair, Aug. 6, 7, 8. A series of four panels describing actual case histories of four Wisconsin families whose health and happiness were threatened by the disease will be shown.

Miss Klein secured this exhibit from the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association for showing at the fair, and she urges all fair visitors to see it. The exhibit was built with funds raised from the annual sale of penny Christmas seals which support the year-round campaign against tuberculosis in Wisconsin.

Carried on by the W. A. T. A. "Early diagnosis is the most important weapon in winning the fight on tuberculosis," Miss Klein stated. "The tuberculin skin test and X-ray are the most effective means of discovering tuberculosis early. The tuberculin test is a harmless skin test which tells whether the germs that cause tuberculosis have entered the body. A chest X-ray of all who react to the skin test tells what harm, if any, the germs have done."

Whether tuberculosis has ever entered your home or not, you are not safe until every other home is safe, the W. A. T. A. says, in stressing the necessity for everyone to be informed on how best to protect himself from this disease.

"Three of the cases described in the W. A. T. A. exhibit tell how to fight tuberculosis wisely—and win. The last is the case of a man who thought he knew a short-cut to recovery. He lost," Miss Klein says.

'Bad Odor' Machine

Coming From Germany

Dresden, Germany — (P) — Some awful smells are being prepared for a journey to the United States, along with a gigantic glass ear and a transparent man who speaks English.

They are part of a big exhibit made in the German Museum of Hygiene for the Oberlander Trust and the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation.

The big glass ear is so constructed that one can see clearly how the membranous labyrinth operates to maintain the equilibrium of its owner.

One of the oddest displays is the "smell table," equipped to demonstrate the six basic odors perceptible by man. Compressed-air atomizing and mixing devices enable the operator to produce any desired (or undesired) smell at a moment's notice.

Drives Cars for 25 Years Without Accident or Arrest

Twenty-five years of safe driving is the record of Louis Helser, 1503 N. Alvin street. During that time he has never been arrested, or stopped to be reminded of some traffic regulation or involved in an accident. Employed as a chauffeur, he has driven in many of the largest cities of the United States, including New York City, Buffalo, Washington, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and a number of large southern municipalities.

"I make it a point to stop the first traffic officer I see in a new city and ask for information regarding driving regulations in that place, and then observe them," Helser said.

Recalling days when he first began driving automobiles, Helser said he took an entire day to prepare for a drive to Milwaukee. It required seven driving hours to reach there while now the trip can safely be made in about two and a half hours, he revealed.

Trap Mosquitoes With Muscle Shoals Light

Muscle Shoals, Ala.—(P)—Health officials are maintaining a close check on results of TVA's mosquito light trap experiments at Muscle Shoals with the view of possible development of a new device for fighting malaria.

The mosquitoes are lured by light, entrapped in the suction of a fan, and drawn into a trap.

Experiments thus far haven't disclosed whether malaria mosquitoes are attracted by light but have shown that another type of mosquito passes up a white light in favor of blue.

The traps are not used to kill the mosquitoes, authorities state, but merely to locate and determine the number of the pests.

Of the work, Dr. L. M. Graves, Memphis health superintendent, says: "We have never learned how many anopheles mosquitoes can exist without maintaining malaria, and this trap may answer that question."
